CHAIRMAN'S STATEMENT

The tragic events of 11 September 2001 mean that a new responsibility is expected of financial regulators – that of countering the financing of terrorism. As described on page thirty-five, the Commission rose to this challenge. It undertook a wide range of actions, including contacting every institution in the finance sector in order to ascertain whether there were any assets in Guernsey belonging to suspected terrorists and terrorist organisations listed by the United Nations Security Council and the United States authorities after 11 September. Thankfully, I am able to report that no such assets have been found in Guernsey. Importantly, the Financial Services Commission (Bailiwick of Guernsey) (Amendment) Law, 2002, which was approved by the States (parliament) of Guernsey in March 2002, will provide the Commission with a specific statutory responsibility to counter terrorist financing. This law will come into force by the end of 2002.

Regulatory activity by the Commission continued unabated during 2001. Of particular importance was the coming into force on 1 April of the Regulation of Fiduciaries, Administration Businesses and Company Directors, etc. (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 2000. Amongst other matters, this law makes it an offence to carry on fiduciary and administration business and act as a company director by way of business without a licence issued by the Commission. Applications for licences were received from 249 firms and individuals by 31 May, the closing date for those undertaking regulated activities when the law came into force. The Fiduciary Services and Enforcement Division expects to have formed judgements on the vast majority of the applications by the end of 2002.

The Regulation of Fiduciaries Law, milestone though it is, should not distract attention from the Commission's other regulatory activities. The Commission is now a mature regulatory body, with a wealth of experience in regulating financial services businesses. Nevertheless, it cannot afford to rest on its laurels. As outlined in the main body of this Report, a number of new pieces of legislation are planned to be enacted. The most ambitious is the proposed repeal of the Insurance Business (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Laws, 1986 to 1999 and their replacement by the Insurance Business (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 2002 and the Insurance Managers and Insurance Intermediaries (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 2002. The Commission recognises the importance of maintaining up-to-date legislation and policies and it will continue to seek to regulate the finance sector in accordance with international standards as they develop.

The Commission also has an interest in the work of the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development ("OECD") on harmful tax practices and tax havens. In July 2000 the OECD included Guernsey amongst the jurisdictions which it considered technically met its tax haven criteria, although the authorities in Guernsey did not agree with this view. The OECD asked the thirty-five jurisdictions it had listed as tax havens to consider making commitments to its standards. Guernsey and Jersey adopted a joint approach to dialogue with the OECD. Discussions were held with the OECD to ascertain its thinking and to identify where there was common ground. Indeed, Guernsey already has existing legislation and has engaged in information exchange in line with the OECD's policies on criminal tax matters. This places the Bailiwick in advance of many jurisdictions, including some OECD members. The recent agreement between Guernsey and OECD removes any possibility that Guernsey might be included on the black list of unco-operative tax havens.

There were appointments within the Bailiwick during 2001 which will have a significant effect on the finance sector.

Professor Richard Conder was appointed as the first full-time chief executive of the Training Agency. Richard was previously Pro-Vice Chancellor of Bournemouth University. The Commission established the Finance Training Agency (as it was then called) in 1996. Since that time the Agency has moved from strength to strength. It is now highly regarded as a facilitator of training courses and development programmes. Richard has joined the Training Agency at an important time in the development of both the Agency and the finance sector and I wish him every success. I am also extremely grateful to Keith Corbin, until recently the executive chairman of the Training Agency, for his leadership of the Agency over the past four years; he ensured that the Agency became firmly established as a vital part of the framework of the finance sector.

In addition, the Guernsey Promotional

Agency was established in 2001. The Promotional Agency adds to the infrastructure which will enable the Bailiwick to continue to flourish as an international financial centre. John Bridle was appointed as the Promotional Agency's first chief executive. John has particular experience in international brand development and I wish him well in this new venture.

Last year saw the retirement of Peter Crook as Director General of the Commission. As stated in last year's Report, his contribution to the Commission was invaluable. In his place, Peter Neville became Director General on 1 April. He has wide experience in regulation and knowledge of a range of financial sectors. These will stand the Commission in good stead for the challenges that lie ahead.

The next few years will continue to be challenging for the Commission. For example, at the request of the Commission, the Committee has invited the International Monetary Fund ("IMF") to carry out an assessment of its regulatory regime in November 2002. The Commission is no stranger to international assessments (or to their favourable conclusions). I am confident that the Commission's reputation will continue to grow and that such assessments should continue to be welcomed.

Laurie Morgan
Chairman

DIRECTOR GENERAL'S STATEMENT

Guernsey's adaptability and resilience in the face of international events were again demonstrated in 2001. Despite fierce international competition and the global slow-down, Guernsey's financial services businesses continued to grow. Being less vulnerable to the vagaries of the mergers, acquisitions and initial public offerings sectors, Guernsey saw considerable progress in the areas of specialist fund administration and protected cell company insurance.

The terrorist attacks of 11 September intensified international efforts to raise standards in fighting money laundering and the funding of terrorism. Working closely with the industry, the Commission was able to demonstrate that Guernsey reacted swiftly and appropriately to those tragic events.

Drawing on the conclusions of the Basel Committee on Banking Supervision's Paper, "Customer Due Diligence for Banks", the Commission agreed with the other Crown Dependencies a position paper, which was published in February 2002, setting out conclusions and recommendations on customer due diligence procedures. This was based upon earlier consultation on the Overriding Principles. The position paper defines the standards towards which firms should be working and is being discussed with all parts of the finance industry before being turned into formal Guidance Notes and amendments to the Regulations. We will be taking account of the differences in practice between the various sectors of the financial services industry and considering the work the Financial Action Task Force ("FATF") is doing on the review of the Forty Recommendations.

I am indebted to Peter Crook for his smooth hand over of a Commission which had been skilfully guided through a series of international reviews. The pressure to demonstrate that Guernsey's finance industry is being regulated to ever-changing international standards continues unabated. Just as the Commission expects continued compliance within the finance sector, so the Commission will be expected to show that its standards and regulatory systems are up to international norms. The IMF has been invited to assess Guernsey's regulatory regime, as part of a wider review of Guernsey's legislation and law enforcement procedures in the financial services area, and a visit by IMF assessors is due to take place in November 2002. Preparations for this visit are well under way. We are confident that there will be no major surprises and that the IMF's report will again endorse the standards which have been established. Of course, there will be recommendations for improvement and we will consider these very carefully.

Guernsey continues to suffer from misconceived and ill-informed sniping at the "offshore" finance industry. The Commission has embarked on a programme aimed at informing regulators and commentators, particularly within Europe, of the high standards established in Guernsey – higher in some respects than apply in most "onshore" jurisdictions. The Commission is raising its profile internationally by becoming increasingly involved in standard setting groups, such as the Basel Committee/ Offshore Group of Banking Supervisors ("OGBS") Working Group on Cross-Border Banking, the International Organization of Securities Commissions ("IOSCO"), the International Association of Insurance Supervisors ("IAIS"), and the new committee that is establishing global standards for the regulation of fiduciaries and company service providers. The Commission's international involvement also includes the provision of statistics to both the Bank for International Settlements ("BIS") and the IMF.

It is essential, in the interests of establishing truly global standards of regulation and corporate behaviour, that the distinction between "onshore" and "offshore" is replaced by a recognition that the true test is whether or not a financial centre is well regulated and co-operative. All major international finance centres have substantial "offshore" business; what matters is that all regulators should apply the same standards – adapted to the local environment – and should co-operate in countering abuse of the increasingly global international financial system.

Discussions with the OECD, which continued through 2001, were successfully concluded in early 2002 and Guernsey will not be on any OECD blacklist. The focus on tax related matters has now shifted to discussions with the United Kingdom on the European Union's ("EU") Code of Conduct on Business Taxation and the Taxation of Savings Directive. Here, too, the aim is to ensure fair treatment and a level playing field, so that Guernsey's economic interests are not damaged by action which is out of step with Guernsey's principal competitor jurisdictions. On the domestic front, mindful of the pressures on local resources, the Commission has set in train a debate involving the finance industry and government on the future shape of the finance sector in Guernsey. The objective is to identify ways to raise the value added by the industry and to use Guernsey's limited resources more effectively. An initial survey, which will inform the debate, will be completed in the second half of 2002.

The Commission's programme to revise and update laws, regulations and the system for protecting depositors, investors, policyholders, other customers and the public has stepped up a gear. A policy letter proposing legislation to regulate market abuse was approved by the States in October 2001 and should become law by the end of 2002. In addition, changes to the Commission's own law, to remove the last references to political involvement, to open additional gateways for the exchange of information, and to address certain operational matters, were put in motion. Consultation is also taking place on completely revised and updated insurance laws; the scope of the money laundering regulations is being extended; procedures are being introduced to address issues raised by the new human rights legislation; and certain aspects of companies law are being revised, for example to introduce the concept of administration.

During 2001 preparatory work was undertaken on consultation documents, published in early 2002, for the establishment of a financial services ombudsman, a deposit protection scheme and a new pensions regime. The Commission's aim in making these proposals is to provide customers of financial services businesses in Guernsey with the same level of protection as they would expect in any other well-developed finance centre.

Throughout 2001, the Commission continued its monitoring and supervisory activities and expanded its programme of on-site visits. The coming into force of the new fiduciary regulatory regime has introduced a whole new area of supervision. The programme of work begun during 2001, to vet applicants under the new law and to ensure that those who do not make the grade are not licensed, has continued into 2002. This is an area where Guernsey – together with a very few other jurisdictions – leads the world and the Commission is determined to maintain the same standards in this sector as in all other areas of financial services business that it regulates.

The Commission has not been isolated from the effects of problems in other jurisdictions. In the insurance area, the Commission appointed Norton Rose to consider the position of international policyholders of Equitable Life, in connection with the proposed compromise scheme and the potential application of the United Kingdom Policyholders Protection Act. Their findings are available on the Commission's website. The implications of the affair on regulation locally are being considered very carefully. Problems have also resulted from the successful growth of the funds industry. The increasing number and complexity of applications have meant that the Investment Business Division has had to reorganise its operations so that the standard of service can be maintained.

The Commission has increased its resources in most areas, not only in the regulatory Divisions, but also in order to upgrade the policy and operational support functions. A complete review of staff terms and conditions of employment has led to a number of recommendations for change, many of which are in the course of being implemented. The Commission's staff are its most important asset and it is important that their hard work and dedication are recognised.

Finally, I would like to welcome the appointment of two chief executives whose work is essential to the successful and profitable development of the finance industry in Guernsey. Professor Richard Conder is the first full-time chief executive of the Training Agency, and John Bridle has been appointed as the first chief executive of the Guernsey Promotional Agency. Their experience and expertise should serve Guernsey well for the future.

Business developments

Stock markets started 2001 quite strongly but, with a mid-year correction, largely driven by continuing reassessments of the prospects for technology and telecoms stocks, the outlook started to become more subdued in the summer. Not surprisingly, the terrorist attacks in New York and Washington D.C. on 11 September meant that the markets finished the year in muted fashion. There were a number of other strong factors which influenced banks' profits in 2001 and will continue to have a bearing in 2002. The year was marked by a lower interest rate environment with declining interest rates in some currency markets. This usually transmits through to lower profits for those banks with plentiful capital since they will earn less on their free capital when lower interest rates prevail. The lower stock market valuations and the severe contraction in stock market activity also led to a marked reduction in fee and commission income from those private banks who are reliant on portfolio management.

Consequently, Guernsey banks will generally be satisfied with their profits in 2001, in what turned out to be a year which many international bankers will be happy to forget. Profits were down overall on 2000, but only by some 6%, which most bankers would regard as acceptable in the circumstances.

Throughout the year, deposit growth was shown on all fronts although, as in the previous year, the greatest strength was in the growth of Swiss fiduciary deposits. Deposits increased by some 13% to £77.2 billion (table 1), the highest level that has been achieved. A feature of the year was the gradual increase in the proportion of deposits accounted for by euro and euro legacy currency deposits, which rose from some 14.3% at the start of the year to nearly 18.6% at the end (figure 1).

Total assets grew to £81.1 billion by the end of the year (figure 2 and table 2), with greater placements in the money market and increased holdings of liquid government securities. Lending to companies and persons remained modest (table 2 and figure 3). The aggregate capital base increased to £1.8 billion (figure 4). The weighted average risk asset ratio remained healthy at 20.52% (figure 5).

Breakdown of deposits with Guernsey banks by currency at end 2001

There was a reduction in the number of banking licence holders, falling from seventy-nine at the start of the year to seventy-two at 31 December. In the main, the surrenders of licences were a result of acquisitions, take-overs and restructurings or group rationalisations. There was an outright surrender by Banque CAI (Suisse) SA, Guernsey Branch following the relocation of its business to another jurisdiction where the group was represented. HSBC Bank USA, Guernsey Branch surrendered its licence but the business was absorbed by other licensed entities in the Bailiwick. During the year the business of CIBC Bank & Trust

The momentum of rationalisation and restructurings looks likely to continue throughout 2002.

The year 2001 was notable in that the Commission was able for the first time to supply a geographic analysis of Guernsey business to the BIS in Switzerland, an organisation that acts as the Central Banker's bank and which collects world-wide banking statistics. The reporting of that information on a regular quarterly basis by banks now provides the Commission with a better understanding of the geographic origin and destination of Guernsey's banking business. A broad allocation of business analysed geographically is set out in figures 8 and 9. The liabilities analysis,

Selected loans and advances at the year end

Company (Channel Islands) Limited, including the service contracts to administer several other licensed banks, was acquired by Bank of Butterfield International (Guernsey) Limited. BGL Private Bank (Channel Islands) Limited surrendered its licence, having transferred its business to its fellow group member MeesPierson (C.I.) Limited. Ansbacher (Guernsey) Limited transferred its business to a Guernsey branch of the newly incorporated Jersey bank, Ansbacher (Channel Islands) Limited, and surrendered its licence. The Kleinwort Benson group is restructuring in a similar fashion, but currently has two banks running parallel. At the start of 2002, the licence previously held by NatWest Offshore Limited was surrendered and that business was subsequently undertaken by The Royal Bank of Scotland International Limited – Guernsey Branch. NatWest still continues to operate in Guernsey but purely as a brand; essentially, it is the community banking or retail banking channel for the Royal Bank of Scotland group. Despite these changes, the country of origin of Guernsey licensed banks remains well diversified (figures 6 and 7).

As mentioned above, the year saw some restructuring of banking businesses between the Bailiwicks of Guernsey and Jersey. The objectives are to remove duplication of functions and economise on the use of capital and infrastructure. As part of this trend, the banking business in Jersey of the Royal Bank of Canada group has now been restructured so that it is a branch of the Guernsey bank, Royal Bank of Canada (Channel Islands) Limited. The Commission is the lead consolidated supervisor of the Channel Islands sub-group, which has its capital base in Guernsey. The sub-group continues to operate substantial banking businesses in Jersey and Guernsey and operates its treasury business from Guernsey.

Total tier 1 capital at the year end which is mainly composed of deposits, does not present any surprises, but it does quantify the importance of some markets to the Bailiwick. Clearly, the importance of Switzerland will be noted as the largest single source of deposits. The deposits of Guernsey residents and intermediaries are the second most important source and the

Country of origin of Guernsey licensed banks – subsidiaries at end 2001

United Kingdom is the third, accounting for some 12%. Other EU countries in aggregate are material at just over 5%. Germany is the largest source of deposits from the EU but it is by no means the dominant EU source. Other important business originates from the Cayman Islands, British Virgin Islands, other Caribbean jurisdictions and Bermuda.

On the asset side, the picture is somewhat different. The Commission has long known that the United Kingdom is the single most important destination for funds from Guernsey banks. Some 45% of placements are made to the United Kingdom, either because London is the dominant inter-bank centre in Europe or to fund the United Kingdom parent businesses of Guernsey banks. In contrast to the liabilities side, other EU Member States are important recipients of funds from Guernsey banks. This arises from inter-bank placements with head office banks and holdings of low risk EU government securities and high quality investment paper. Switzerland is worthy of a mention as a destination for funds, largely as a result of placements with Swiss banks and some lending to Swiss clients. The United States of America is an important destination mainly because of the attraction of low risk United States government paper, including treasury bonds and United States Government National Mortgage Associations (“GNMAs”) and United States Federal National Mortgage Associations (“FNMA’s”). Inter-bank placements to the treasury operations of banks with Jersey head offices or Jersey offshore treasury centres are also significant.

Supervision and policy

The supervisory programme continued smoothly. There were seventy-three formal prudential meetings with licensed banks in 2001 compared with seventy-two the previous year. In addition there were 163 general or courtesy meetings dealing with changes in strategy, corporate restructurings, mergers and take-overs and changes in personnel.

BANKING CONTINUED

The momentum of the on-site review visit programme was increased in 2001. Some eighteen visits were completed by the Banking Division, covering some twenty-two licensed banks. By the end of the year the Banking Division had completed visits to some two-thirds of the banking sector and had covered all types of bank present in the Bailiwick, including small and large private banks, and retail and corporate banks. In 2001 the Division made a series of return on-site visits to banks which had been visited the previous year and which had been required to make remedial changes to their know your customer procedures and practices.

Important progress was made during the course of the year to tighten up the know your customer and anti-money laundering disciplines in the banking sector. In April the Banking Division issued a guidance note requiring banks to exercise more caution and to adopt enhanced disciplines in respect of business from sensitive jurisdictions. Prompted by a United States Senate Minority Staff report by Senator Levin published in March, the Commission also conducted a review of the extent to which banks in Guernsey provided correspondent banking facilities to minor banks from other jurisdictions.

This exercise identified a few small banks from unco-operative jurisdictions which had correspondent banking arrangements with Guernsey banks. These arrangements have now been terminated.

In May there was a technical relaxation of the minimum risk asset ratios required for some banks. Banks were advised that the Commission was prepared to consider applications for reduced minimum risk asset ratios from banks already operating at the then 10% minimum where their parent banks were prescribed lower levels by their home supervisors. The purpose of this was to address inefficient use of regulatory capital in a group context and avoid the possibility that subsidiary banks could be at a disadvantage. A few banks have applied for a reduction but the overall risk asset ratio for subsidiary banks remains comfortably high at over 20%.

The Basel Committee on Banking Supervision published its Paper on Customer Due Diligence For Banks on 4 October. In November the Commission issued guidance to banks as to best practice in the taking on of introduced business. The Basel Paper also paved the way for the three regulatory Commissions in the Crown Dependencies to produce a position paper, following consultation with the industry on the overriding principles for a revised know your customer framework (see page thirty-six).

During the second half of the year, preparation continued on the consultation paper on deposit protection in Guernsey which was published at the end of January 2002. A synopsis of the important principles that would be considered in the final consultation document was published in June by the Director of Banking in the Commission's publication, Update, as an article entitled "Towards Deposit Protection in Guernsey". The introduction of a deposit protection scheme will give depositors certainty of protection up to a specified maximum level of deposits. The consultation process seeks to find a consensus as to which categories of depositors should be eligible for protection and which should be excluded. In addition, the consultation paper asks whether deposits should be paid in full or whether depositors should bear a portion of the loss.

Comments were submitted in May by the Banking Division to the Basel Committee in respect of its consultation paper on the new Capital Accord. The comments focussed on whether it is appropriate for supervisors in small jurisdictions to apply or be involved in the vetting of the internal ratings approach models where banks in their jurisdiction are not significant providers of credit. The other points raised related to the likelihood of double counting of capital under the then current proposals on the measurement and control of operational risks and the fact that applying further capital to operational failures may still fail to address those risks. Substantial work is still being undertaken on the new Capital Accord and the Banking Division expects to assess the impact on Guernsey banks of the Basel Committee's more refined approach to operational risk in 2002.

FIDUCIARY SERVICES AND ENFORCEMENT

Introduction

The main event of 2001 was the bringing into effect of the Regulation of Fiduciaries, Administration Businesses and Company Directors, etc. (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 2000 ("the Regulation of Fiduciaries Law"). The law came into effect throughout the Bailiwick on 1 April 2001.

The Regulation of Fiduciaries Law introduced a comprehensive structure for the regulation of trust and corporate service providers (including company directors). All those engaged in the provision of such services in or from within the Bailiwick must apply to the Commission for a licence authorising such activities. The provision of such activities without a licence is a criminal offence for which the penalty is a fine and/or imprisonment for up to two years.

The introduction of regulation has provided valuable information as to the size and economic importance of the fiduciary sector to the Bailiwick (see below).

Restructuring of the fiduciary sector has continued over the last year and the Commission has continued to place great emphasis on the appropriate training and development of staff.

Most trust companies enjoyed a very profitable year of trading in 2001.

During the year, the Director spoke at a number of conferences and seminars on fiduciary regulation, anti-money laundering and private client matters generally.

Regulation

The Bailiwick is one of the very first jurisdictions in the world to introduce a law for the effective regulation of the fiduciary sector. The Regulation of Fiduciaries Law is both robust and proportionate. It is based on the proposition that all those involved in the provision of fiduciary services should be "fit and proper" in terms of integrity, competence and solvency.

There are two categories of fiduciary licence:-

- A full fiduciary licence which can only be granted to a company or a partnership. Such a licence authorises the licensee and its directors or partners, managers and employees to carry on regulated fiduciary activities in the course of the licensee's business.
- A personal fiduciary licence which can only be granted to an individual. This authorises the licensee to carry on a restricted range of fiduciary activities. These include acting as a company director, as a co-trustee (but not as a sole trustee), and as a trust protector.

The law grants various powers to the Commission relating to the obtaining of information and documents from licensees and others. Pursuant to the law, the Commission has issued separate codes of practice for trust service providers, corporate service providers and company directors. The Commission may take any contravention of any of the provisions of the codes into account in its decision as to whether to exercise any of its powers under the law.

Individuals and businesses involved in the provision of fiduciary services had to submit their licence applications to the Commission by 31 May 2001. The Commission received a total of 179 applications for a full fiduciary licence and seventy applications for a personal fiduciary licence. The names of all applicants were posted on the Commission's website. Under the transitional provisions of the Regulation of Fiduciaries Law, an applicant may continue with the provision of fiduciary services pending the final determination of the application.

By 31 December 2001, the Commission had granted thirty-two full fiduciary licences and sixteen personal fiduciary licences to applicants, following consideration in depth of the licence applications, and seventeen on-site inspection visits by Commission staff. By 31 March 2002, the number of licences granted had increased to seventy full fiduciary licences and twenty-three personal fiduciary licences.

Pursuant to the Regulation of Fiduciaries Law, the Commission has made the following rules and regulations:-

- The Regulation of Fiduciaries (Accounts) Rules, 2001
- The Regulation of Fiduciaries (Fiduciary Advertisements and Annual Returns) Regulations, 2001
- The Regulation of Fiduciaries (Fees) Regulations, 2001
- The Regulation of Fiduciaries (Consequential Modifications) Regulations, 2001

The Director of Fiduciary Services and Enforcement is serving on an international working group which is charged with the task of setting international standards for the regulation of trust and corporate service providers.

Size of sector

The number of applications for a fiduciary licence received by 31 May 2001 (together with subsequent applications by new start-up businesses) shows 184 companies or partnerships and seventy-seven personal fiduciaries involved in the provision of fiduciary services. The businesses employ 2,556 staff. The total of fiduciary assets under administration is £114 billion.

Restructuring of the fiduciary sector continued over the course of 2001. The major developments were the acquisition of Riverdale Limited by Insinger Trust (Guernsey) Limited, and the acquisition of the CIBC group's Guernsey operations by the Bank of Butterfield group. The year also saw the setting up of two completely new trust companies, the closing down of another, and the withdrawal of a number of individuals from the provision of fiduciary services. Restructuring of the sector may be expected to be an on-going process.

Trust law

The Trust Law Review Committee (whose members are set out in Appendix 2) continued to provide advice as to potential amendments of Guernsey trust law. A detailed review of the Trusts (Guernsey) Law, 1989, as amended, has been undertaken by Professor Paul Matthews. The Commission intends to publish a summary of the review as part of a full consultation exercise with trust practitioners before bringing forward proposals for the amendment of certain aspects of the trust legislation.

Companies

A total of 1,363 Guernsey companies were incorporated during 2001 representing a 16% decrease over the previous year. Guernsey has continued with its policy of requiring complete disclosure of beneficial ownership (and undertaking due diligence on such potential beneficial owners) before permitting the incorporation of a company. The Commission understands that such a robust policy is only shared by two other jurisdictions. There were 15,910 companies on the Guernsey register at the year end.

Table 3 shows the trend in company formations since 1991, while figures 10 and 11 provide information on the types of company formed and the jurisdiction of beneficial ownership.

Company law

The Commission promoted two changes to company law during 2001. The Companies (Guernsey) (Amendment) Law, 2001 came into force in January 2002. This law simplifies the mechanism for the conversion of share capital from one currency to another. A draft ordinance and regulations have also been prepared which will permit companies to issue shares of no par value. The ordinance and regulations are expected to come into force in the summer of 2002.

The Company Law Reform Committee met seven times in 2001. Following these meetings and work by the committee in previous years, draft legislative changes to the existing body of company law have been prepared. In addition, the Commission had been considering how best to transfer the provisions in the Control of Borrowing Ordinances relating to the formation of companies to company law. The Commission expects to issue consultation papers on the proposed changes to company law during 2002 and 2003.

Enforcement

The Commission has continued with its policy of providing active and practical assistance to regulators and law enforcement bodies at both a local and an international level.

Recognition was received from the United States Federal Bureau of Investigation ("FBI") for assistance provided in a case which resulted in a four year sentence of imprisonment and a US$8.4 million restitution order made against Michael Richmond who was convicted for his part in an investment fraud conducted through the internet. On a more general note, the London-based FBI agent wrote an article for the FBI's in-house periodical which was complimentary to all the Crown Dependencies for their positive attitude in the fight against economic crime.

As discussed on page thirty-seven, in September, the Director of Fiduciary Services and Enforcement and the Assistant Director, Enforcement attended the International Symposium on Economic Crime in Cambridge, England. The Director also gave a speech on the OECD's report on the misuse of corporate vehicles for illicit purposes.

One reaction to the terrorist acts in the United States on 11 September was a series of resolutions and orders from the United Nations which took effect in the Bailiwick. This in turn led to significant activity by the Commission in dealing with enquiries from the finance sector and with information that was disclosed. A Terrorist Finance Team was established in order to co-ordinate the action and responsibilities relating to terrorism matters. This consists of representatives of the Commission, the Financial Intelligence Service, Police Special Branch, the Attorney General's Office and Customs. The Team meets on a regular basis to discuss issues arising from the financing of terrorism.

Meetings of the Financial Fraud Information Network continued to be attended regularly in London by the Assistant Director, Enforcement. These meetings discussed general matters of financial fraud.

INSURANCE

Captives and protected cell companies

Guernsey continues to maintain its position as the leading captive location in Europe, with new business in the captive arena being dominated by the increase in the number of protected cell companies ("PCCs") and the establishment of further cells.

Traditional captive business still attracts new participants, witnessed by a significant number of new registrations in 2001, although the past year also saw several licences surrendered, including the licences of six captive owners who chose to convert their companies to PCCs. The tragic events of September, which heralded unprecedented rate rises and a substantial decline in capacity in the traditional insurance and reinsurance markets, have had, and will continue to have, a significant impact on captive business.

A total of thirty-four new licences were issued, of which sixteen were for PCCs. New PCCs registered include insurers for United Kingdom construction firm Amey, Lloyd's of London syndicate managers Euclidian, the Halifax Bank of Scotland banking group, and the insurance group Thomas Miller.

The new PCCs demonstrate not only increasing support for the concept but a diversity of owners in terms of business, geographic location and size.

During the year a further forty-one cells were established and, after allowing for the closure of one cell, the number of cells in operation at 31 December stood at 176.

In the traditional captive arena, Shire Pharmaceuticals Group Plc, N Brown Group Plc and QinetiQ Group Plc all established new captive companies. The year 2001 also saw the licensing of the first captive insurer for a domestic, and locally owned, trading company.

Table 4 shows that the international business in Guernsey is becoming more complex, with an increasing number of commercial captives and with significant development of new types of business being written by the PCCs.

The number of insurance managers stood at thirty-two at the end of the year. This is an increase of two during the year, with both Ortac Underwriting Agency Limited and Anfre Underwriting Limited being established by the locally based Heritage Group (formerly Polygon) to manage specialist insurance syndicates.

International life insurance

At the end of 2001 there were twenty-five international life companies registered in Guernsey. The majority of these insurers sell specialist life and pensions contracts, mainly to expatriates residing in countries outside Europe. They are a small but strong group with geographically diverse ownership from countries such as France, Italy and the Nordic countries. There were three additional registrations during 2001 from France, South Africa and the United Kingdom.

Domestic insurance business

There was little movement within the domestic market during 2001, which included the transfer of long-term business of two registered companies into another registered company, taking the total number of domestic insurers to thirty-nine at the end of the year.

During the year, fourteen intermediaries were registered and three registrations were surrendered, bringing the total number at 31 December 2001 to sixty-eight, compared to fifty-seven at the end of December 2000. The fourteen new registrations included two local banking operations, two new companies formed following the withdrawal of direct sales staff of two United Kingdom insurers from the local market and five travel agents.

All insurers with a physical presence in the Bailiwick are required to register with the Commission. An insurer is deemed to have a physical presence if the insurer acts through a resident agent. Those insurers writing Bailiwick risks without a physical presence in the islands are categorised as recognised insurers. All intermediaries registered by the Commission are required by law to arrange insurance only with recognised or registered insurers. At the end of December 2001, the number of recognised insurers had increased to 147.

Premium income, gross assets and net worth

Total premium income received by all

Guernsey registered international insurers is estimated to have increased to £2.3 billion at December 2001. The gross assets of offshore insurers increased over the year from £10.9 billion to an estimated £12 billion, while their net worth increased from £4.35 billion to an estimated £4.8 billion.

Supervision and policy

The Commission continues to regulate on a risk-based basis. As well as meeting minimum solvency requirements, the completed its review of insurance legislation and revised and updated draft legislation was passed to the Attorney General's Office for consideration in September 2001. A consultation paper was issued to the insurance industry in March 2002. It is hoped that the Insurance Business (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 2002 and the Insurance Managers and Insurance Intermediaries (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 2002 will come into force by the end of 2002.

insurer must ensure that the funds available are sufficient to meet the estimated total annual aggregate net risk retention, together with expenses, calculated on a worst case scenario. Any risk gap should be adequately covered. Account is taken of the nature of the classes of business involved, the spread of risk available to the insurer, claims experience and the risk management expertise of the insured. Funds available must be sufficient to meet claims for the future in a worst case scenario.

Reinsurance, or retrocession, protection must be of sufficient quality to minimise any probability of non-recovery.

The Insurance Division was actively involved in several projects to diversify and improve the insurance sector in 2001. The Insurance Law Review Committee (whose members are listed in Appendix 2)

The Pensions Advisory Panel (see Appendix 2) continued with its consideration of a regulatory framework for pensions and in 2002 produced a consultation paper on future pensions regulation in Guernsey. Currently, there is no specific legislation covering all aspects of pension provision in Guernsey. The paper proposes a system of annual certification by the Commission for occupational schemes, with schemes having to confirm that they have met defined minimum standards. These standards are proposed to include the provision of information to members, the experience of trustees and confirmation that employers' contributions have been paid on time. Certain types of scheme will qualify for exemptions from all or part of the certification system.

During the year Insurance Division staff dealt with a number of issues in relation to United Kingdom insurer The Equitable Life Assurance Society. Whilst the United Kingdom Financial Services Authority (“FSA”) remains responsible for the prudential regulation of the Society, the Commission appointed London lawyers Norton Rose to examine a number of concerns relating to the Guernsey branch operation of Equitable Life Assurance Society. In particular, Norton Rose were asked to consider the position of international policyholders both in connection with the proposed compromise scheme and the potential application of the United Kingdom Policyholders Protection Act. Their findings are available on the Commission’s website.

Voting on the proposed compromise scheme took place early in 2002; the majority of policyholders voted to accept the compromise scheme. The Commission considered that a vote in favour of a scheme provided the best opportunity for improving the prospects of the company and policyholders alike.

The Insurance Division continued its programme of on-site visits and made visits to six authorised insurance managers, nine registered insurance intermediaries and three domestic insurers. The programme involves assessing the control and management of the operation concerned, a comprehensive anti-money laundering review and an inspection of client files. With the appointment of an actuary to the Commission in 2001, a comprehensive on-site inspection programme covering the international life insurers is now being prepared.

INVESTMENT BUSINESS

Market sentiment

At the end of 2000 market sentiment had been rather negative, and fund development during the first quarter of 2001 reflected that cautious tone, with the value of open-ended funds declining slightly, although this was offset by growth in closed-ended funds. Improved business inflows were, however, seen very clearly during the second quarter of 2001. At the end of the quarter, funds under management reached a record £32 billion, a 20% increase on the position at December 2000, and reflected in particular a 32% increase in the value of closed-ended funds under management; open-ended funds also increased in value by some 11% over the period. These figures represented new peaks for the Guernsey fund management industry.

Total funds authorised and approved at end 2001
Number of schemes

Those signs of recovering market sentiments were, of course, entirely reversed by the dreadful events of 11 September so that, by the end of the third quarter, funds under management had declined by some £2.5 billion (7.6%) and open-ended funds in particular gave up all of the gains they had made during the second quarter. However, the resilience of markets, and the strength of the Guernsey fund industry, were re-emphasised by the end of the year, by which time total funds under management had risen again, to a new record of over £33 billion (a 26% increase on the year as a whole). Within that total, open-ended funds accounted for £15.7 billion (a 10% rise during the year) while closed-ended funds finally overtook the value of open-ended funds, reaching £17.5 billion (an increase of 50% on the year). During 2001 a total of eighty-seven new funds were authorised (compared with ninety-five in 2000), along with forty-eight (compared with forty-five in 2000) new classes of existing umbrella funds and PCCs. Figures 13 and 14 indicate the trend over time in the number of funds managed in Guernsey and assets under management. Figures 15 to 19 and tables 7 to 10 provide a broad breakdown of the types of investment by open-ended and closed-ended funds.

The Commission commented in last year's Report on the importance of the closed-ended fund sector. As market conditions for more traditional investment vehicles remained difficult, it was perhaps natural that there would be a growing focus on venture capital, development capital and alternative investment funds. It was also noticeable that, although the absolute number of new funds and investment classes authorised during 2001 was a little way below the record levels experienced in 2000, the overall value of funds authorised was much greater; some new alternative investment vehicles were very large indeed. Funds under management in non-Guernsey open-ended schemes amounted to some £8.9 billion at the year end, an increase of 15.9% over the position at the end of 2000. The Commission noted in last year's Report that the value of closed-ended non-Guernsey schemes administered in the Bailiwick was significant, although it was uncertain of the absolute values involved. There remain some uncertainties about the coverage of data on closed-ended non-Guernsey schemes, but it seems likely that the overall value of funds (including non-Guernsey open-ended and closed-ended schemes) administered in the Bailiwick is of the order of £50 billion.

Closed-ended schemes: geographical distribution of investments at end 2001

Supervision and policy

The number of institutions licensed under the Protection of Investors (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 1987 increased from 411 at the end of 2000 to 443 at 31 December 2001 (figure 20). The continuing strong demand for fund approvals in both the open-ended and closed-ended sectors continued to make demands on the Investment Business Division's resources. In order to make best use of those resources, the Division consulted during the year on a revised fund approval process designed to deliver greater clarity and transparency for applicants, and greater efficiency for the Division. Those changes, which came into effect at the end of 2001, were well received by the fund industry and already appear to be delivering benefits. The continuing growth in closed-ended funds made particular demands on the Division's time, since the authorisation required for these launches – a consent under the Control of Borrowing Ordinances granted under authority delegated from the Committee – involves an assessment of each proposed prospectus. The Division has long recognised that the criteria it applies, although relatively well understood in the Guernsey fund industry, have not been made public and do not therefore appear transparent to potential fund sponsors. Closed-ended funds do not pay application or annual authorisation fees and it is clear that the open-ended funds sector has in effect been subsidising the closed-ended sector for some time. Now that the closed-ended sector has overtaken the open-ended sector this situation is no longer sustainable. During the third quarter of 2001, therefore, a small industry working party was established to consider how the authorisation process of closed-ended vehicles could be made more transparent, by the publication of a consistent set of disclosure guidelines, and also to consider an appropriate fee structure. It is not intended that there should be any fundamental change to the authorisation policy currently adopted by the Division; it is hoped, however, that publication of a clear set of authorisation policies will, as with the streamlined open-ended approval process, assist promoters.

Despite this continuing pressure of authorisation activity, the Division was able to meet its objective of a significant increase in the number of inspection visits undertaken during 2001. A total of twenty-one visits were undertaken, compared with fifteen during 2000. Of these, eleven were to designated managers and six to designated custodians/trustees; the visits included two follow-up visits to confirm remedial efforts and one special review in response to specific issues which had come to the Commission’s attention. The other visits were carried out to licensees not involved in the administration, management or custody of authorised open-ended collective investment schemes.

The increased inspection frequency was in part achieved by further refinements of the Division’s on-site monitoring process. A significant amount of information is gathered from licensees and analysed prior to the inspection visit, which can therefore focus more clearly on areas where the Commission might have concerns. Inspection visits have maintained their “top down” approach to licensees’ control environments. The fundamental aim of inspections is to enable the Commission to satisfy itself that licensees have an effective process through which directors and senior management can assure themselves – and so can assure the Commission – that they are properly managing the risks inherent in their business, and are having proper regard to the Commission’s rules. Where the Commission finds areas of relative weakness, and of authorised investment vehicles is not carried on solely through on-site inspection visits. Part of the Investment Business Division team conducts regular reviews of licensees’ notifications to the Commission, along with reviews of their accounts and the accounts of the funds they administer. One such accounts review raised significant concerns about the manner in which a small closed-end venture capital fund had

In the case of one licensee, the Commission imposed a condition limiting the amount of new business that licensee could take on while a programme of improvement was implemented. The Commission raised those concerns with the fund’s sponsors, but did not regard the responses received as satisfactory. After due consideration, therefore, the decision was taken in February 2001 to remove that principal manager’s licence. The fund itself is no longer pursuing an active investment strategy and its assets are being realised for the benefit of investors.

Other training initiatives included participation in courses on “Building a Compliance Culture” arranged by the Training Agency. This had initially been scheduled as a single seminar but it was promotion within the Bailiwick. During the course of the year, preparations continued for the implementation of the revised Guernsey “Class A” Collective Investment Scheme Rules. The Guernsey fund management industry went to significant trouble and expense to meet the requirements of H.M. Treasury in ensuring that arrangements here were equivalent to those operating in the United Kingdom. Confirmation has been received from H.M. Treasury that they will not propose any modifications to the rules put to them but they have yet to define a formal timetable for implementation of a new Designation Order. Following industry consultation, it has been decided to leave the existing designated Class A Rules in place and to implement the new rules alongside them. The existing rules can be rescinded as and when the United Kingdom authorities are able to proceed with a revised Designation Order.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENTS

Banking

Maintaining contact with other supervisors around the world remains an important part of the Banking Division's work, not least because all of the banks currently licensed in Guernsey are subsidiaries or branches of international banking groups operating elsewhere. It is also critical to have current information on issues and developments in methodology in the banking supervisory community.

The Director General, the Director of Banking and the Deputy Director of Banking attended the annual meeting of the OGBS held in Gibraltar in June 2001. Much of this meeting involved debriefing by representatives of other international bodies, including the Basel Committee on Banking Supervision, the IMF and the OECD. A feature of this particular meeting was that it was held in parallel with a similar meeting of the Offshore Group of Insurance Supervisors ("OGIS") so there was opportunity for an exchange of views between the two supervisory groups. As always in these meetings, the opportunity is taken to discuss with fellow supervisors from other jurisdictions matters of mutual interest. Pre-arranged meetings were held with the Bermuda Monetary Authority and the Gibraltar Financial Services Commission. The opportunity was also taken to compare notes with fellow regulators in respect of the Commission's understanding of, and preparations for, the Basel Committee's new Capital Adequacy proposals.

A second meeting of the OGBS was held in November 2001 at the FSA in London. The November meeting was, not surprisingly, dominated by consideration of the adequacy of the defences of offshore finance centres in the anti-money laundering sphere and in vigilance against terrorist financing. The Director of Banking spoke in connection with risk profiling.

Several bilateral meetings were held during 2001 with supervisory authorities based in jurisdictions which have established banks in Guernsey. During the year meetings were held with supervisors from the Swiss Federal Banking Commission in Bern, the FSA and the Jersey Financial Services Commission.

During the year the Director and Deputy Director of Banking visited the head offices of the parent banks of Guernsey licensed banks in Zurich, Lugano and Stuttgart.

The Director of Banking participated in the on-going work of the joint Basel Committee/OGBS Working Group on Cross-Border Banking. Meetings were held in Jersey, Paris, London and Basel. The September meeting in London was particularly critical because it was imperative to complete the drafting of the paper on customer due diligence for banks. Impetus was given to the subject by the terrorist attacks of 11 September and the subsequent analysis of terrorist financing. The paper was published in final form on 4 October 2001 by the Basel Committee. The November meeting in Basel was held immediately after a meeting which explained the document to the supervisory world.

After last year's preparations for the statistical collection of geographic locational data on banking assets and liabilities, the Commission was pleased in 2001 to be able to commence both the collection of the data on a regular quarterly basis, and also to submit those figures to the BIS in Switzerland. Aggregate banking data from Guernsey and the other Crown Dependencies will be published as part of the fourth quarter 2001 aggregate banking data by the BIS. The publication of such data by offshore finance centres was a recommendation by the Financial Stability Forum in 2000.

The Deputy Director of Banking and the Assistant Director attended a three day workshop in Switzerland on the Basel Committee's revised Capital Adequacy proposals undertaken by the Financial Stability Institute, the training arm of the Basel Committee.

As in previous years, Guernsey banks were hosts to on-site visits by home supervisors visiting subsidiaries and branches in the Bailiwick. In 2001 there was one on-site visit including staff from the Swiss Federal Banking Commission and several visits by representatives of accounting firms commissioned by the Swiss Federal Banking Commission in order to undertake special audit work.

Contact with representatives of the Jersey Financial Services Commission was maintained through the course of 2001, to keep abreast of preparatory work on introducing deposit protection schemes in the Bailiwicks.

Fiduciary Services and Enforcement

corporate entities. During the year, the University of Trento Research Centre on Transnational Crime in Italy published its final report (which had been commissioned by the European Commission) on non-transparent entities in the EU Member States which might obstruct international anti-money laundering co-operation. The OECD Steering Group on Corporate Governance also published its report on the misuse of corporate vehicles (including corporations, trusts, foundations and partnerships with limited liability features) in 2001; the report was welcomed by OECD Ministers and G-7 Finance Ministers in May 2001 and July 2001 respectively. The report is expected to aid the FATF's current review of its Forty Recommendations. The Director of Fiduciary Services and Enforcement spoke on the subject of the report at a United States Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") seminar at the International Symposium of Economic Crime in

Cambridge, England in September 2001. The Director also spoke in January 2001 to a joint meeting of the United Nations Global Programme Against Money Laundering/Egmont Group training seminar in Vienna. The Director is currently serving on a working group of FATF concerned with enhancing the transparency of trusts, and on a working group set up under the auspices of the OGBS for the setting of international standards for the regulation of trust and company service providers.

The Commission has continued with its policy of close co-operation with other jurisdictions which also regulate (or are about to regulate) providers of trust and corporate services. Regular meetings have been held in particular with regulators from Jersey and the Isle of Man to discuss common issues and problem areas. Such meetings are of considerable benefit.

The Commission, as a full member of the Financial Fraud Information Network, commonly known as FFIN, has been a regular attendee of meetings at the FSA in London.

Insurance

Since the formation in 1993 of OGIS and the establishment of the IAIS in 1994, Guernsey has played a leading rôle in both organisations.

Guernsey sits on the Executive, Technical and Emerging Markets Committees of the IAIS. The Director of Insurance is the chairman of the Insurance Fraud Subcommittee, which in 2001 issued "Anti-Money Laundering Guidance Notes for Insurance Supervisors and Insurance Entities". These have since been adopted by IAIS members. Membership of the Reinsurance, Securitisation and Education subcommittees, and a presence at other subcommittee meetings, ensure that Guernsey is involved with the policy behind international regulatory changes. The IAIS is also investigating the risks to which supervisory organisations are exposed, so that all of these are identified and allocated to one or more subcommittees or working groups. The Director of Insurance and the Deputy Director regularly meet with other overseas regulatory bodies and exchange information for supervisory purposes. The quarterly committee meetings of the IAIS are held in different parts of the world, and presence at these meetings facilitates a thorough understanding of different supervisory approaches and ensures that other supervisors are comfortable with regulation in the Bailiwick. The Insurance Division has also updated the IAIS training manual to include the IAIS's Core Principles of Supervision.

OGIS continues to bring out guidelines on topics that have not been covered by the IAIS, such as the supervision of rent-a-captives, the migration of insurers, the amalgamation of insurers, the acceptance of personal lines business from overseas and loan-backs to captive group companies. OGIS also takes a stance on those topics where policy has not been finalised by the IAIS, such as reinsurance. The Director of Insurance is an executive committee member of OGIS, representing the organisation in international matters.

During the year the Director of Insurance was contracted to the IMF for a series of missions. He also participated at two OGIS events and made visits to the IMF in Washington D.C. where he assisted officials in preparation for their assessments of insurance supervision in various jurisdictions throughout the world.

The Association of British Insurers, the European Commission, the FSA and Lloyd's of London are visited regularly. The Director of Insurance and his staff also spoke on several occasions on insurance regulatory topics at conferences and seminars, both in Guernsey and overseas, and they continued the policy of inviting experts to speak to the Guernsey insurance sector on interesting and educational topics.

The Insurance Division attended conferences sponsored by the Associations of Insurance and Risk Managers in the United Kingdom (AIRMIC), the Risk and Insurance Management Society (RIMS), the South African Risk and Insurance Management Association (SARIMA), the Federal Risk Management Association (FERMA) and the Tokyo Forum.

Investment Business

The Investment Business Division continues to maintain close contact with regulators in other jurisdictions. The regular vetting of individuals proposed to be associated with a Guernsey fund involves extensive liaison with regulators overseas. Although formal Memoranda of Understanding are not a pre-requisite for the Commission's ability to give information to, or receive information from, regulators in other jurisdictions, such Memoranda are a growing feature of the international scene. Following the events of 11 September, IOSCO working groups have been reviewing the content and effectiveness of such Memoranda of Understanding, and the Commission has been invited to participate in a European working group which is intending to standardise the framework for European regulators.

In addition to the European regional meetings, held in Athens last October, the Director General and the Director of Investment Business attended IOSCO's annual conference in Stockholm in May. The Director General and the Director of Investment Business also represented the Commission at the Enlarged Contact Group meeting held in Athens under the Chairmanship of the Hellenic Capital Markets Commission. The Director also visited London for briefings from H.M. Treasury and the FSA on current regulatory developments.

The Director and Deputy Director of Investment Business, and the Deputy Director (Policy and International Affairs), visited Brussels in March to initiate dialogue with European Commission officials on various aspects of regulatory interest and concern, including financial crime, ombudsman services, and current developments on collective investment schemes and the Investment Services Directive. That dialogue was very fruitful, and it is intended to maintain contact with officials in Brussels on a regular basis.

At the annual "Globalisation of Mutual Funds" conference organised by the Investment Company Institute of America and the International Bar Association, the Director of Investment Business was invited to chair a discussion group on the application of money laundering regulations to the operation of mutual funds.

In accordance with the Division's usual policy, Senior Analysts attended international seminars co-ordinated by the FSA in London, and the SEC in Washington D.C. Attendance at these seminars helped, as always, to develop the Division's growing range of international contacts. In addition, the Commission received a visit from representatives of the Financial Supervision Board of South Africa, with whom it had concluded a Memorandum of Understanding during 2000. Senior Analysts also attended a range of investment seminars and conferences dealing, inter alia, with the essentials of fund management and administration, e-commerce, and alternative investment management.

PREVENTION OF ECONOMIC CRIME AND TERRORIST FINANCING

General

All Divisions of the Commission continued to be active during 2001 with regard to the prevention and detection of economic crime. Following the terrorist attacks in Washington D.C. and New York on 11 September, the Commission also became more actively involved in the prevention and detection of terrorist funding.

Countering of terrorist financing

The Commission has long been involved in countering terrorism financing. For example, Orders made under the United Nations Act 1946, such as the Afghanistan (United Nations Sanctions) (Channel Islands) Order 1999 (which gave effect to the restrictions under United Nations Security Council Resolution 1267), are routinely circulated to regulated institutions.

With regard to the events of 11 September, the Commission, along with the Attorney General's Office, the Financial Intelligence Service and Police Special Branch and Customs have established the Terrorist Finance Team. This group is responsible for co-ordinating efforts in countering the financing of terrorism.

Since 11 September the Commission has issued four notices to regulated firms (and applicants for a licence under the Regulation of Fiduciaries Law) on terrorism and the financing of terrorism.

Amongst other matters these notices:-

- required firms to provide a positive or nil response as to whether they had any relationship with any person on the list of suspected terrorists and terrorist organisations published by the United States Treasury Office of Foreign Assets Control on 24 September;

- notified firms of the requirement to freeze all assets held by those persons and organisations listed by the United Nations under United Nations Security Council Resolutions 1267 and 1333. All firms were required to report to the Commission with a return (positive or negative) as to the value of assets frozen;
- required firms to monitor the Commission's website. The website includes links to the websites of the FBI, the United States Office of Foreign Assets Control, the Bank of England and the FSA;
- provided firms with a copy of the Terrorism (United Nations Measures) (Channel Islands) Order 2001. This Order, made under the United Nations Act 1946, imposes in Guernsey (and Jersey) measures against terrorism pursuant to United Nations Security Council Resolution 1373. It prohibits fund raising for, and restricts the making available of funds to or the provision of financial services to, terrorists. It also provides powers to freeze accounts of suspected terrorists;
- issued Business From Sensitive Sources Notice (No. 3) – see below;
- reminded firms of their anti-money laundering obligations under the Criminal Justice (Proceeds of Crime) (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 1999;
- reminded firms of the Afghanistan

(United Nations Sanctions) (Channel Islands) Order 2001, which was made under the United Nations Act 1946;

- reminded firms of the provisions of the Prevention of Terrorism (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 1990; and
- reminded firms of the importance of anti-terrorist activity being a part of each firm's routine operations.

The Commission reviews firms' anti-terrorist procedures during on-site visits.

The Commission has kept in close contact with overseas regulatory and law enforcement organisations in the United States and United Kingdom and has offered to provide assistance to those bodies.

Crown Dependencies Anti-Money Laundering Group meetings

Three meetings were held in London during 2001 attended by representatives from the regulatory agencies, Police, Customs, financial intelligence units and the Attorneys General from the three Crown Dependencies. The Commission was represented by the Director General, the Director of Fiduciary Services and Enforcement and the Deputy Director of Banking. These meetings co-ordinate the Crown Dependencies' anti-money laundering/anti-terrorist financing policies, discuss issues of common interest and provide a forum for the exchange of ideas and views.

The Bailiwick Financial Crime Committee

This Committee met twice in 2001. It is a forum for closer co-ordination at a strategic level between the Attorney General's Office, the Commission, Police, Customs and the Financial Intelligence Service, in the areas of prevention, detection, investigation and prosecution of economic crime and the countering of terrorist financing.

The Financial Crime Group

This group comprises executives of the Attorney General's Office, the Commission, Police, Customs and the Financial Intelligence Service. It reports to The Bailiwick Financial Crime Committee. Its objectives are to discuss particular cases of interest and provide practical assistance to interested parties. The Group met six times in 2001.

Guidance Notes Working Group of the Crown Dependencies

Representatives of the three regulatory Commissions of the Crown Dependencies held regular meetings in London, Guernsey and the Isle of Man throughout 2001. Some of these meetings were also attended by a representative of the Isle of Man Insurance and Pensions Authority. The Commission was represented in these meetings by the Deputy Director of Banking.

The Working Group concentrated on producing a position paper following up the consultation document ("Overriding Principles for a Revised Know Your Customer Framework") issued in December 2000 and the responses to that consultation document. After detailed discussion and drafting, supplemented by meetings attended by the Director General, the position paper was issued in February 2002. The paper does not amend the Guidance Notes on the Prevention of Money Laundering or the "all crimes" anti-money laundering legislation. However, the three Commissions have stated that they expect financial services businesses to move towards implementing the changes to anti-money laundering practices detailed in the paper. Detailed Guidance Notes and revised Regulations will be finalised after discussions with the various industry sectors and once the Commission has had the opportunity to consider the implications of FATF's revision of the Forty Recommendations.

Guidance Notes on the Prevention of Money Laundering

The Guidance Notes were amended once in 2001. The most significant changes resulting from this amendment (which came into effect in October) were the amendment to Appendix C (re-instating Gibraltar as an equivalent jurisdiction) and the introduction of a new appendix providing financial services businesses with detailed guidance on how they should deal with politically exposed persons ("PEP") risk. This latter guidance was agreed and issued jointly by the three Commissions in the Crown Dependencies.

Working Group on Cross-Border Banking

This working group (consisting of representatives of the OGBS and the Basel Committee on Banking Supervision) produced a paper which was issued by the Basel Committee in October 2001. The Commission was represented on the working group by the former Director General (until April 2001) and by the Director of Banking (after April 2001). The paper, entitled "Customer Due Diligence For Banks", provides a concise exposition of the know your customer standards for supervisors and banks.

Business From Sensitive Sources Notice

On 4 October the Commission issued its third Business From Sensitive Sources Notice ("BSS Notice"). This provided instructions on anti-terrorist financing measures and an update on the jurisdictions considered by FATF to be non-co-operative.

With reference to terrorist financing, the BSS Notice informed financial services businesses that they must not take on business from any person or company named in lists of terrorist suspects or any persons, companies or countries associated with them. Businesses were advised to exercise a much greater level of caution when considering taking on business from countries which have been seen to support terrorist activities or which may have been associated with terrorist activities. Financial services businesses were advised to monitor relevant websites (such as those of the United States Treasury Office of Foreign Assets Control, the FBI, the FSA and the Bank of England) to ascertain the current intelligence on anti-terrorist matters.

On-site visits

The programme of on-site visits continued to be rolled out in 2001. During the year the Banking, Fiduciary Services and Enforcement, Insurance and Investment Business Divisions between them carried out seventy-four on-site visits during which the matter of anti-money laundering or anti-terrorist financing procedures was at least a part of the programme. These visits have proved to be a valuable supervisory tool and assist the Commission in feeding back to the finance sector what it sees as best practice.

Market abuse

Following recommendations made to the Committee, in October, the States of Guernsey approved a policy letter which proposed a number of amendments to the Protection of Investors (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 1987. These amendments include the introduction of the offence of market abuse. Legislation has been drafted and, following agreement by the Attorney General's Office and the Commission, this will be submitted to the States of Guernsey in the autumn of 2002. The new legislation is expected to be enacted at the end of 2002.

Training

In October 2001 a programme of anti-money laundering training courses for money laundering reporting officers was hosted by the Training Agency.

This programme was organised in close co-operation with the Commission, the Financial Intelligence Service and MHA Consulting. Each of the investment, insurance and banking sectors had one day dedicated courses. The fiduciary services sector had two one day courses in Guernsey and, in November, two half-day courses in Sark and Alderney. The courses were well received by the 225 delegates.

Speakers included representatives from a

London investment bank, the Asset Forfeiture and Money Laundering Section of the United States Justice Department, the Moscow based Bank Review Unit of the World Bank's Foundation for Enterprise Restructuring and Financial Institution Development, Lloyd's of London and MHA Consulting. There were detailed and targeted case studies run by MHA Consulting and the Financial Intelligence Service.

The Commission, the Financial Intelligence Service and the Training Agency intend these training courses to become annual events. The next series of courses will be held in July 2002.

Speeches

The Director General spoke at the International Symposium on Economic Crime in Cambridge, England in September on the implications of money laundering for intermediaries and fiduciaries. The Director General, together with the Attorney General and representatives of the SEC and the Monetary Authority of Singapore, presented a workshop on the exchange of information by regulatory authorities. In addition, the Director of Fiduciary Services and Enforcement made a speech on the OECD report on the misuse of corporate vehicles for illicit purposes. As is the objective of such gatherings, considerable value was obtained by making new contacts, and in explaining Guernsey's regulatory framework and the routes available for sharing information for the prevention, detection, investigation and prosecution of crime. The event was particularly relevant in 2001 because it took place during the week of 11 September.

Publications

As a matter of policy, the Commission includes articles on Guernsey's anti-money laundering framework, and topical subjects on the prevention of money laundering, in its newsletter Update. In this connection, the Director of Fiduciary Services and Enforcement provided an article entitled "Trust Structures: A Force For Good" in the summer edition of Update. The article discussed how trusts are useful vehicles but how they, as with any other structure, might be used for money laundering. The Commission considers that this potential problem is best addressed in two ways. First, all trustees must be subject to a comprehensive all crimes anti-money laundering law which includes tax evasion, and which requires effective client identification procedures, record keeping procedures, suspicious transaction reporting procedures and training procedures. Second, there must be an effective licensing and regulation system for trustees, and appropriate powers to inspect and obtain information and then to exchange such information with other international bodies. This is the regime which is in place in Guernsey.

TRAINING AGENCY

Introduction

The Agency is owned by a charitable trust with the protectors of the trust being the Commission and the president of the Committee.

The trustees are:

Stephen Jones	Guernsey International Business Association
Peter Morgan	Representative of the States Board of Industry
Peter Neville	Guernsey Financial Services Commission
Deputy John Roper	Representative of the States Education Council

The board of directors of the Agency at 31 December 2001 was as follows:

Advocate Chris Bound	Collas Day
Keith Corbin	Nerine Trust Company Limited Chairman
Robin Fuller	Rothschild Asset Management (C.I.) Limited
Dudley Jehan	N P Holdings Limited
David Leafé	Royal Bank of Canada Vice-chairman
Nigel Lewis	States Board of Industry
Martyn Mann	Polar Instruments Limited
Peter Marchant	NatWest Offshore
Ian Morris	Bacon & Woodrow
Mary Perkins	Specsavers Optical Group Limited
Deputy Kevin Prevel	States Board of Industry

The two advisory groups established to act as channels of communication between the board and the commercial and financial sectors met regularly during 2001.

Members of the advisory groups are listed in Appendix 2.

The Agency is funded on an equal basis by the States of Guernsey and the Commission.

In 2001, the long-term strategy of the Training Agency, future training demands, information technology strategy and physical space were considered by the Board of Directors. In order to address these issues, it appointed Professor Richard Conder, former Pro-Vice Chancellor, Bournemouth University, as the first full-time chief executive of the Training Agency. Professor Conder took up his position early in 2002.

The Training Agency employed a further seven staff as at 31 March 2002.

General

During 2001 the Training Agency once again proved to be very successful in facilitating high quality training and development initiatives for the Bailiwick's workforce.

An extensive education and training programme took place and the Nelson

Place study centre continues to act as a focal point for education and training. Staff at the Agency have worked closely with all stakeholders in determining training priorities and meeting their requirements. During the year Nelson Place operated at full capacity and many larger events took place at outside locations. At the end of 2001 the Agency had 715 student members who, during the year, had made 2731 study visits to the centre. Over 250 training events took place attracting over 2500 delegates. Additionally, 140 examinations were held over fifty-three days during which 600 candidates were examined on a range of award bearing programmes. Table 11 illustrates the Agency's development since 1997.

The achievements of the Agency, mapped against the financial costs incurred, have been impressive. The Agency is extremely grateful to Keith Corbin, until recently the executive chairman, for his leadership of the Agency over the past four years. He has ensured that the Agency is now firmly established as a facilitator of training and development programmes within the Bailiwick.

The long-term aim of the Agency is to engender a training and development culture within all organisations throughout the Bailiwick and facilitate high quality training and development programmes. This culture is expected to generate a highly qualified, knowledge-based workforce, enabling all organisations to compete within the global market place.

The major challenges facing the Agency are the increasing demands of employers, professional institutes, students, increased supervision of the financial services sector and the complex and varied training needs of the commercial sector. All of these demands must be measured against the finite resources of Nelson Place.

Award bearing programmes

Two major postgraduate academic programmes took place at Nelson Place during 2001. The MSc in Corporate Governance/Grad ICSA commenced its second year in the autumn. The MSc is delivered in Guernsey by the School of Finance and Law, Bournemouth University. The University of Portsmouth also commenced a two year postgraduate diploma in Personnel Management/ Graduate of Institute of Personnel and Development. Both programmes are now well established in Guernsey.

A further run of the Institute of Directors Company Direction Programme took place. Ten candidates were successful at the diploma examination with one candidate obtaining a distinction. A 72% pass rate was achieved compared with a United Kingdom pass rate of 67%. The Agency is delighted to report that one of its students has been elected as a Chartered Director (C.Dir). He is the first to achieve this award in Guernsey and only the eighty-eighth Chartered Director appointed by the United Kingdom Institute of Directors. It is expected that further “graduates” from the Company Direction Programme will seek election to Chartered Director status. The Agency is extremely grateful to the local branch of the Institute of Directors for its support.

A close working relationship exists between the Guernsey Fund Managers Association, the Securities Institute and the Agency in facilitating programmes for the investment sector. A full range of courses has taken place to support participants studying for the Investment Advice Certificate and the Financial Planning Certificate. It has been a complex year as many syllabus changes have taken place as a result of regulatory changes in the United Kingdom. In total, seventy-two candidates registered for these programmes, including fourteen candidates who undertook the regulation and compliance module of the Securities Institute Diploma led by BG Training, London.

	1997	1998	1999	2000	2001
Registered number of students	254	415	485	614	715
Recorded number of sessions	1693	2875	3113	2423	2731

Central Law Training once again delivered the Foundation and Diploma Programmes in Offshore Trust Management on behalf of the Society of Trust and Estate Practitioners. Fifty-eight candidates undertook these programmes.

Seven students successfully completed the Advanced Certificate in Marketing Management Practice during 2001, with a further eight starting the course in March 2001. Eight students commenced the Certificate in Marketing Practice. The Agency is delighted to announce that the postgraduate diploma in marketing is likely to commence in 2002. This will be the first time this fully taught programme has been offered. The Agency is the only place in the Channel Islands offering the complete suite of Chartered Institute of Marketing programmes.

Ten students successfully completed the Certificate in Training Practice, leading to Associate Membership of the Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development.

Three students achieved distinctions. Forty-four delegates attended the course leading to the “Introductory Certificate in Management” awarded by the National Examining Board for Supervision and Management. This four day course, facilitated by the Agency and delivered by the Guernsey Business School, continues to prove popular, with two more programmes scheduled for 2002.

Short courses

As described on page thirty-seven, a major series of courses on the prevention of money laundering took place throughout the Bailiwick during the autumn. For the first time, product specific programmes were arranged for banking, fiduciary and investment and insurance products. Courses were also held in Alderney and Sark. A continuing professional development (“CPD”) programme course on “De-Mystifying Hedge Funds” took place attracting 145 delegates. It is expected that intermediate and advanced programmes on hedge funds will take place in 2002.

“Guernsey Company Law – An Update”

took place in the spring. Once again, the course was accredited for CPD and over 130 delegates attended. A team of advocates from Collas Day led the course.

A series of compliance courses took place, attracting seventy-four delegates. These were led by the Commission’s Director of Investment Business and Jenny Lowe of the Guernsey Association of Compliance Officers.

On behalf of the Data Protection Office, the Agency arranged a number of seminars designed to raise awareness of the Data Protection (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 2001. Seven seminars took place over the summer months, with 175 delegates attending in total.

Investors in People

The Agency continues to manage the Investors in People (“IIP”) project on behalf of the States Board of Industry. At the presentation ceremony held in May, the Board of Industry signed the main licence for IIP. Prior to the signing of the licence, Investors in People UK assessed whether the Guernsey pilot project had met their stringent standards and whether Guernsey had an infrastructure to manage the long-term licence agreement. Guernsey enjoyed one of the most successful pilot programmes anywhere in the world.

Some 9% of the Guernsey working population works for an organisation that is either recognised or working towards IIP recognition. Currently some sixteen organisations are recognised, with a further twelve working towards recognition.

The Agency is currently designing a local IIP website as well as a step by step guide to achieving recognition, both of which are aimed at supporting local companies.

Other initiatives

To coincide with the introduction of the Regulation of Fiduciaries Law in April 2001, the Agency prepared a booklet for all employers and employees within the fiduciary sector entitled “Award Bearing Courses for the Fiduciary Sector”. The booklet is a guide to all course programmes and is suitable for all levels of staff employed within the fiduciary sector.

At the Risk 2001 conference the Guernsey Insurance Company Managers Association announced the launch of a training initiative for the captive insurance sector. A training course which is to be accredited by Glasgow Caledonian University is currently being developed and is expected to have its first intake of participants in 2002. The Agency is grateful to JLT Solutions for their sponsorship of the initiative and to Mr John Parkinson for writing the text for the course.

A study manual which will form the basis of a Guernsey life insurance examination module is in its final stages of preparation. The Agency is grateful to the Life Insurance Association and KPMG for their valuable input. It is expected that the manual will be completed in 2002.

A training needs analysis survey was undertaken in 2001 in conjunction with the local branch of the Securities Institute. The results of the survey were made available to the Guernsey Business School to assist in its planning. Additionally, the Agency organised a Securities Institute road-show in late spring for all training officers.

Working with the States Board of Industry, the Agency designed the Guernsey Leadership Programme for senior managers within the commercial sector. The programme was an intensive three day event facilitated by two faculty members from the London Business School. It comprised two main components – strategic thinking and leadership of people. Eleven senior managers attended and, following excellent feedback, a further programme will be offered in 2002.

As a result of successful negotiations, the Economist Group agreed to work with the Training Agency to deliver the Economist Developing Management Excellence Programme for Senior Managers. This is the first time that the Economist has worked in partnership with an outside agency. A formal launch took place at the Agency in February 2002 when the chief executive of the Economist presented the programme to Guernsey managers.

The Agency continues to work in partnership with the Institute of Directors on the Management Shadowing Programme and the Excellence in Training Award.

The annual report of the Agency is available on request from the Training Agency, Nelson Place, Smith Street, St Peter Port, Guernsey.

DIRECTOR GENERAL'S DIVISION

General

The Director General is the chief executive of the Commission and has overall responsibility for its management. Although day-to-day responsibility for banking supervision, the supervision of insurance businesses, the supervision of fiduciaries, administration businesses and company directors, enforcement and the regulation of investment business lies with the other Divisions and their Directors, the Director General's Division remains directly involved with a wide range of regulatory issues. These include certain policy and legislation matters, international affairs, accounting and internal control functions, staff matters (including health and safety issues), the infrastructure and operations. The Division also provides core resources to the Commission's four other Divisions and the Training Agency and is the main link with the Committee and the Attorney General's Office.

The Director General and the Deputy Director (Policy and International Affairs) are closely involved with the Commission's policies on anti-money laundering and the countering of terrorist financing. Following a transfer of responsibilities within the Commission in early 2002, the Deputy Director will be responsible for the Guidance Notes on the Prevention of Money Laundering.

The Division also co-ordinates information on the finance sector requested by the Committee. As a matter of routine, in 2001 this included the contributions to the Committee's economics and statistics review and budget report. The Committee also routinely asks the Commission for comments or advice on particular matters such as legislative developments abroad and international agreements and conventions. These exchanges continued throughout 2001. The practice was also continued of the Director General periodically meeting with the Committee.

Other States Committees also seek the Commission's comments from time to time. The Commission continues to provide the Housing Authority with recommendations on applications for essential licences by individuals and institutions in the finance sector. In giving its views, the Commission works within the policy laid down by the Authority. The Commission normally requires an applicant to provide information on matters such as staff, training and qualifications, reasons for the proposed appointment, contribution to the economy and the reasons why a licence of a particular length has been requested. The Commission comments on the actual and prospective economic benefit contributed by the applicant institution and on the applicant's commitment to training. The Commission attaches great importance to training particularly because of the pressure on resources and the importance of utilising local personnel as effectively as possible.

Policy and International Affairs

The policy and international affairs department continued to be busy in 2001.

The year saw continuing activity with regard to the initiative on tax competition by the OECD. The Director General, together with the Attorney General, the States Supervisor and the Administrator of Income Tax, played a part in supporting the Committee in relation to the continuing discussions with the OECD. This involvement included participating in meetings with the OECD in March and October. The discussions concluded in February 2002 with an agreement between Guernsey and the OECD which removes any possibility of Guernsey being considered to be unco-operative by the OECD.

As described on pages thirty and thirty-three, the Director General attended meetings of the OGBS and IOSCO. He also visited London in March to meet representatives of the FSA. In July the Director General met with representatives of the Federal Reserve System, the SEC, the Department of Justice, the Department of Treasury, the IMF, the FBI, the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network, the Department of State Bureau for International Narcotics and Law Enforcement Affairs, and senior executives from the Senate in Washington D.C. The Director General also visited Switzerland twice in November in order, first, to attend a meeting of the chairmen and secretaries of the regional groups of banking supervisors and, second, to participate in a seminar hosted by the BIS on offshore banking centres. These meetings provide useful fora where the Director General can participate in the setting of international regulatory standards, discuss matters of mutual interest with regulators, law enforcement officials and others and explain the Commission's policies and standards to interested parties.

The Director General represents the Commission at formal meetings with the finance sector, the president of the Committee, the Attorney General and the States Supervisor. These meetings enable the authorities to provide information to the finance sector and obtain the reaction of the finance sector to potential developments.

Further to a visit to Guernsey in 2000 by the Statistical Department of the IMF, the Commission agreed to participate in the IMF's 2001 Coordinated Portfolio Investment Survey ("CPIS"). The Deputy Director (Policy and International Affairs) is the CPIS statistician for the Bailiwick and, accordingly, attended seminars for small economies with international finance centres hosted by the IMF in Cayman in February and Bermuda in September. Support for the Bailiwick's participation in the 2001 CPIS was received from the Committee, the Policy and Finance Committee of the States of Alderney and the General Purposes and Finance Committee of the Chief Pleas of Sark, together with a wide range of finance sector associations. It was decided that the Commission would ask relevant institutions to provide cross-border investment statistics in respect of banks, open-ended and closed-ended collective investment funds, insurers, insurance intermediaries/brokers and special purpose vehicles. Following a pilot study, the department approached some 190 institutions for statistical information. The initial results will be discussed with the IMF and other small economies with international finance centres in May 2002 at a seminar to be held in Jersey. The IMF intends to undertake the CPIS annually.

The department was also closely involved with promoting proposed changes to the Commission Law. After consultation with the Commission, the Committee recommended to the States of Guernsey that a number of amendments should be made. The States agreed the recommendations in October and the amendment law in March 2002. The amendments will, when enacted, provide the Commission with an explicit statutory responsibility to counter financial crime and the financing of terrorism, change the mechanism by which the Commissioners are appointed so that the president of the Committee will no longer ex-officio be the chairman of the Commission, introduce a formal relationship in law between the Commission and the General Purposes and Finance Committee of the Chief Pleas of Sark, require the Commissioners to satisfy themselves in connection with the Commission's internal audit and corporate governance and improve the Commission's ability to exchange information with regulatory and law enforcement bodies.

In March 2001, the Deputy Director (Policy and International Affairs) visited the European Commission in order to meet with, amongst others, the official responsible for ombudsman matters and learn about developments within the EU on this important area of consumer protection. During the latter half of the year significant progress was made on drafting a consultation document proposing a financial services ombudsman scheme for the Bailiwick. The consultation document was issued by the Committee in February 2002. It is proposed that the ombudsman scheme should cover all business regulated by the Commission, together with a range of other financial activities, including lending and pensions business and, potentially, consumer credit. The consultation document envisages that the scheme will be administered by a specially constituted body run by a chief ombudsman. It is further suggested that the scheme administrator will have a board mainly comprised of persons with financial services expertise who will act as a panel of experts. The consultation paper also recommends that the chief ombudsman should be able to make compensation awards of up to £100,000 and that eligible complainants will include private individuals and other vulnerable persons such as small businesses.

The Director General and the Deputy Director (Policy and International Affairs) act as chairman and secretary respectively of the Company Law Reform Committee which was active during 2001 (see page eighteen).

In the autumn of 2001 the Director General called upon the finance industry to join the Commission in discussing how the Island's limited resources can be used more efficiently. As a first step, a survey of the finance sector is to be undertaken with the objective of obtaining information which will inform the debate aimed at utilising Guernsey's resources more efficiently by increasing the value added by the finance sector. The Government has now also joined the debate, and the Committee, the Guernsey International Business Association ("GIBA") and the Commission will be joint sponsors of the survey which will take place during the summer of 2002. A project management team, consisting of the Deputy Director (Policy and International Affairs) and a representative from each of the Committee and GIBA, will supervise the project.

Operations

The operations department deals with finance, information and communications technology, premises, human resources and the general administration of the Commission. Financial responsibilities cover the accounts, budgets and internal control procedures. The department is also responsible for maintaining the accounts and assisting in the financial management of the Training Agency. In addition, the staff of the Agency (except for its chief executive) are employed by the Commission. Consequently, in 2001 the Director General and his team maintained close contact with the Agency and the Director General attends the board meetings of that body as an observer.

A programme to provide additional management information and to update the control environment in the Commission is under way. During the year, significant upgrading of information technology systems and information security took place. Staff have received security awareness training as part of the implementation of these systems.

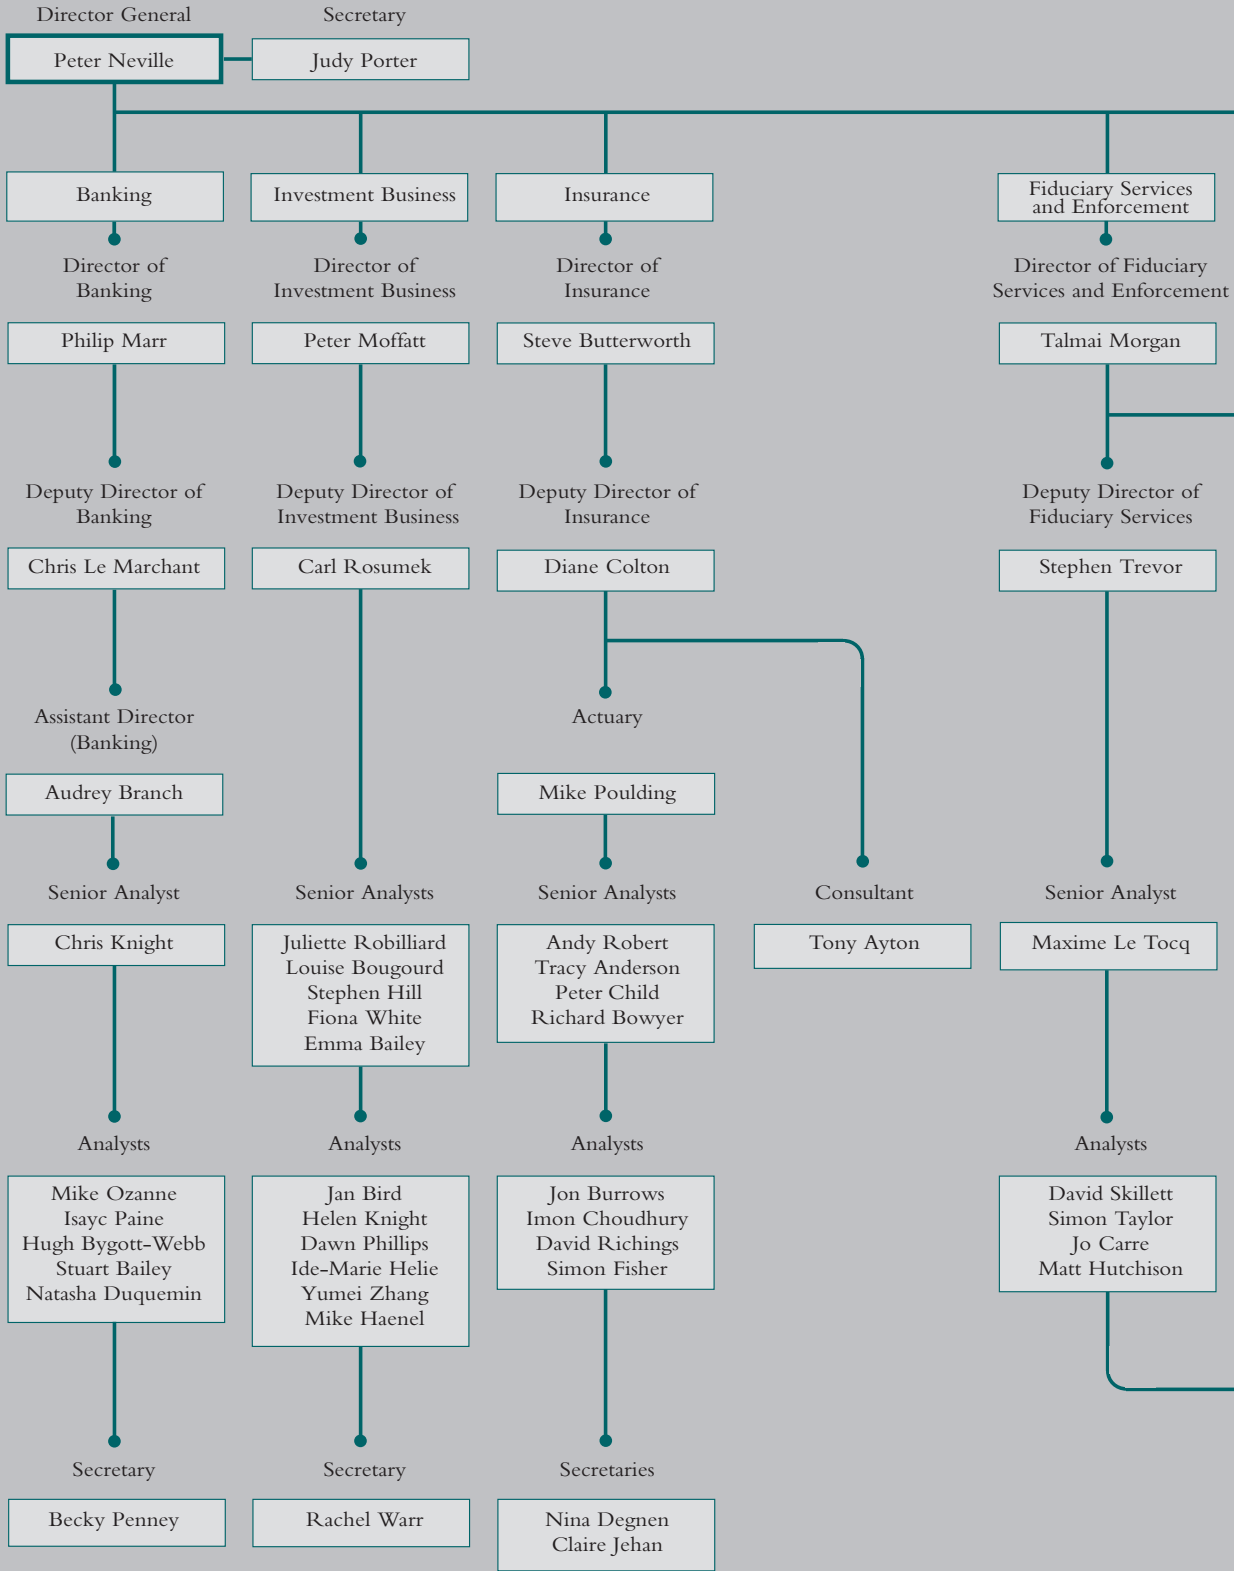

When the Commission Law is amended, the Commissioners will be required by law to satisfy themselves as to the Commission's internal audit and corporate governance standards. The Commission is working with outside consultants to enhance the relevant systems.

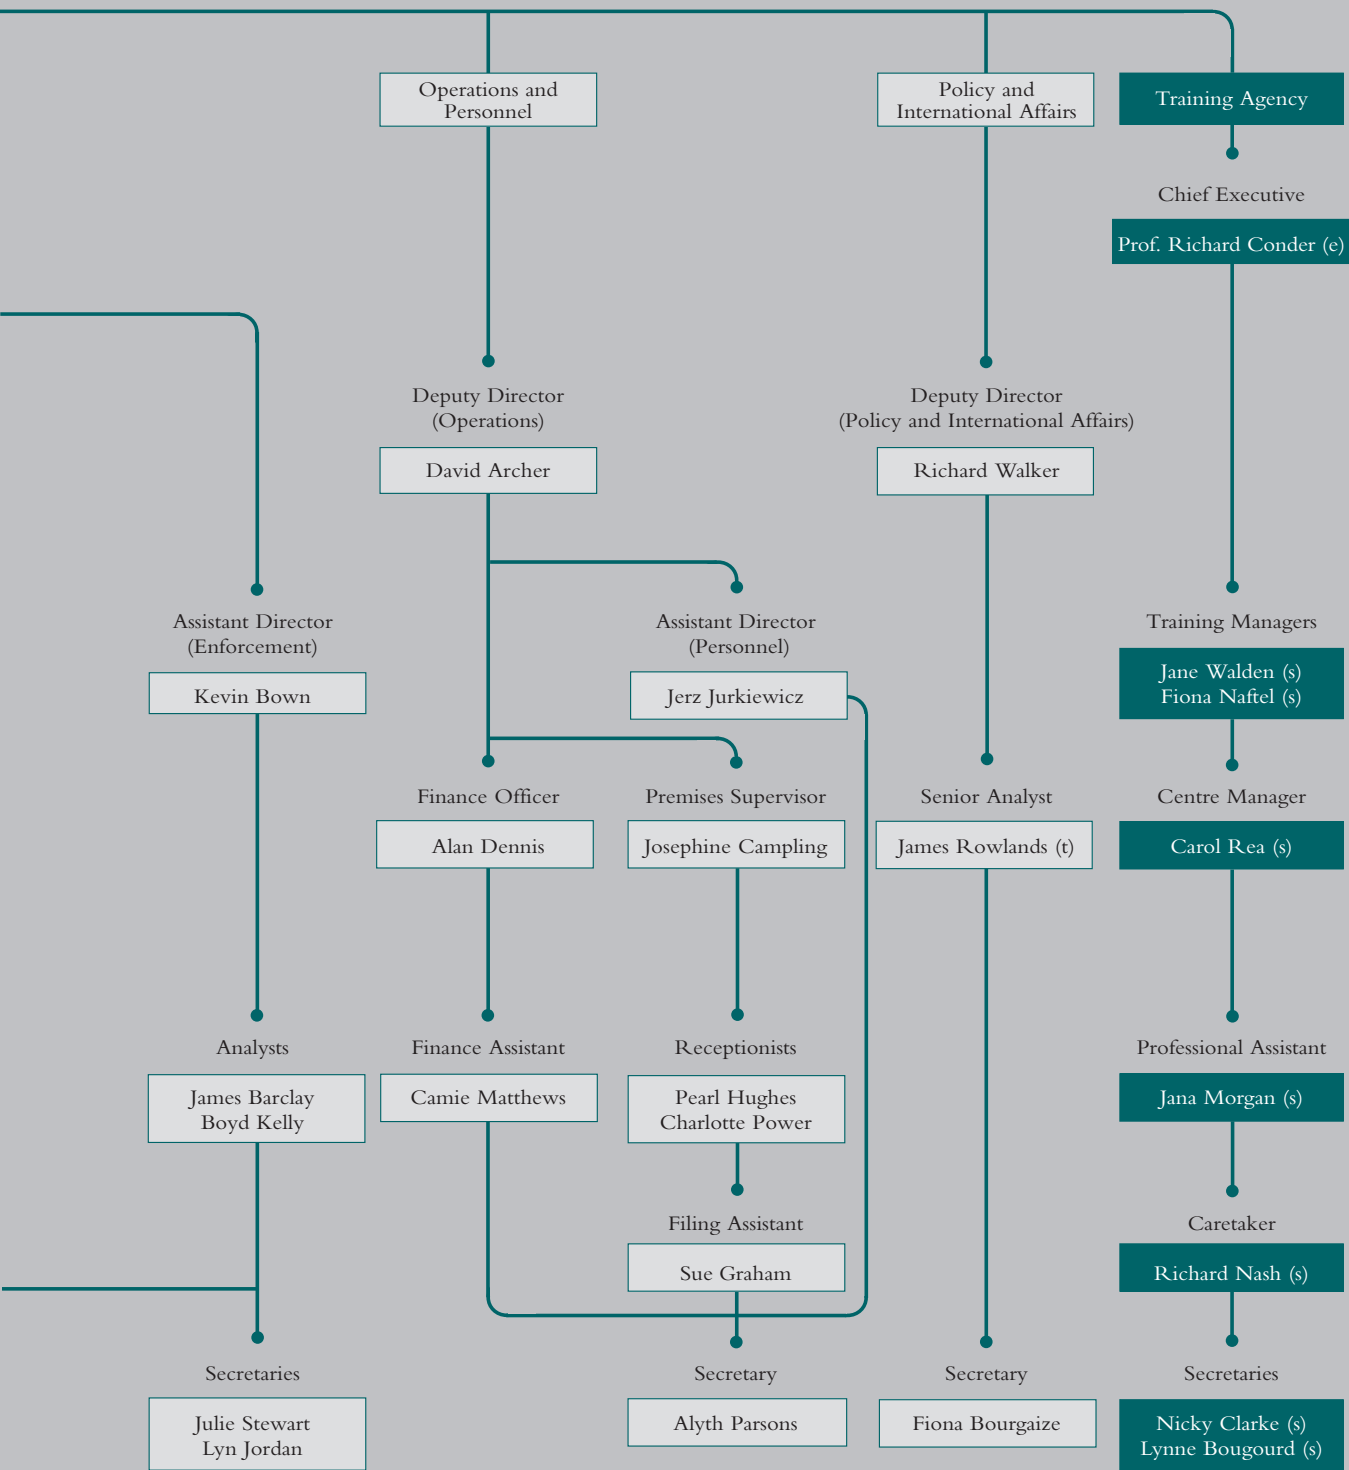

The operations department has commissioned studies on the processes involved with the potential reliance on information in electronic form.

The website has been re-designed and the new format, which is intended to make information more readily identifiable and accessible, is now operational. The Commission is making increasing use of its website to provide information to regulated firms and other interested parties. For example, most of the consultation documents and draft laws prepared during the last two years have been posted on the website instead of being printed and photocopied. The Commission intends to make increasing use of this medium of communication.

The personnel department has been busy not only as a result of the Commission's increasing staff numbers but also with the need to keep abreast of the changing employment environment. During 2001 the department commissioned a comprehensive review of staff terms and conditions of employment. The review covered a wide range of issues and led to a number of recommendations for change. These recommendations have been, or are in the course of being, implemented. The Commission has decided to undertake to move towards the IIP accreditation and work on this will start later in 2002. A dedicated human resources officer is being recruited.

COMMISSION ORGANOGRAM AS AT 31 MARCH 2002

 (s) Staff seconded by the Commission
 (t) Member of staff seconded to the Commission by a third party

COMMISSIONERS AND STAFF

The Commissioners have remained unchanged since 1999. Their wide experience in their respective fields enables the Commission to continue to benefit from the expert views of practitioners across a wide range of disciplines.

Peter Neville took over as Director General in April 2001, following the retirement of Peter Crook.

All Divisions saw an increase in staff numbers during 2001. From relatively few persons staffing the Commission at the latter end of the 1980s, as at 31 March 2002, a total of seventy persons were employed by the Commission (together with a consultant and a secondee) – sixty-three employed directly by the Commission and a further seven seconded to the Training Agency. The Training Agency employs its chief executive directly.

There were promotions in three Divisions. Assistant Directors in the Director General's Division, the Fiduciary Services and Enforcement Division and the Insurance Division were promoted to the rank of Deputy Director, and an Analyst in the Investment Business Division was promoted to Senior Analyst.

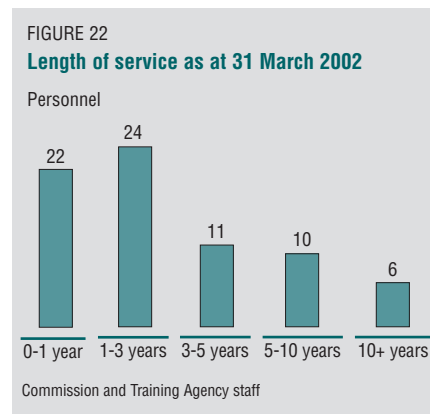

Additional Senior Analysts were recruited in the Fiduciary Services and Enforcement, Insurance and Investment Business Divisions, whilst additional Analysts were recruited in all the regulatory Divisions.

The number of staff in the Banking Division has increased to ten, reflecting the general growth in workload and the increasing focus on on-site visits. The new staff include a person with wide-ranging statistical experience, in line with current Commission policy to increase the Division's international statistical function.

The Fiduciary Services and Enforcement Division has continued to expand since the introduction of the Regulation of Fiduciaries Law. The Division now comprises twelve persons, of which three – an Assistant Director and two Analysts – are directly involved with enforcement. In the fiduciary services area there is a recently recruited Senior Analyst, who reports to the Deputy Director, and four Analysts.

Increasing demands on the staff, particularly in relation to on-site visits, has required restructuring and recruitment in the Insurance Division. The Division now has the dedicated services of an actuary and the number of Senior Analysts has increased to four under the control of the Deputy Director. The Division has fourteen staff and expects to recruit further Analysts in the near future.

The Investment Business Division has seen an increase in the number of Senior Analysts to five, which includes a promotion to this level. The Senior Analysts all report to the Deputy Director of Investment Business. There are also six Analysts. This number is to increase to eight in the near future. Increased activity across the Division has resulted in restructuring and the establishment of dedicated teams to cover on-site visits, monitoring and applications.

Over the last year there have been increasing demands upon the staff of the Director General's Division. As a consequence, the Policy and International Affairs department has recruited the services of a secondee. It is expected that a permanent member of staff will be taken on to replace the secondee in the Spring of 2002. The rise in staff numbers across the Commission has put pressure on the human resources and information technology areas. An accounts supervisor and an information technology administrator have been recruited. In addition, a dedicated human resource manager is being recruited.

The Commission's staff have expertise, experience and academic qualifications covering a broad range of relevant disciplines. The Commission recognises that staff need continuing training and experience in order to ensure they are able to meet the demands made of them. Training programmes range from introductory to advanced and diploma level and include specialist courses. In many cases, these are further augmented with professional qualifications. Commission staff also attend workshops and conferences to keep abreast of developments.

A breakdown of the length of service of staff in the Commission and the Training Agency is provided in figure 22.

INCOME AND EXPENDITURE OF THE COMMISSION

General

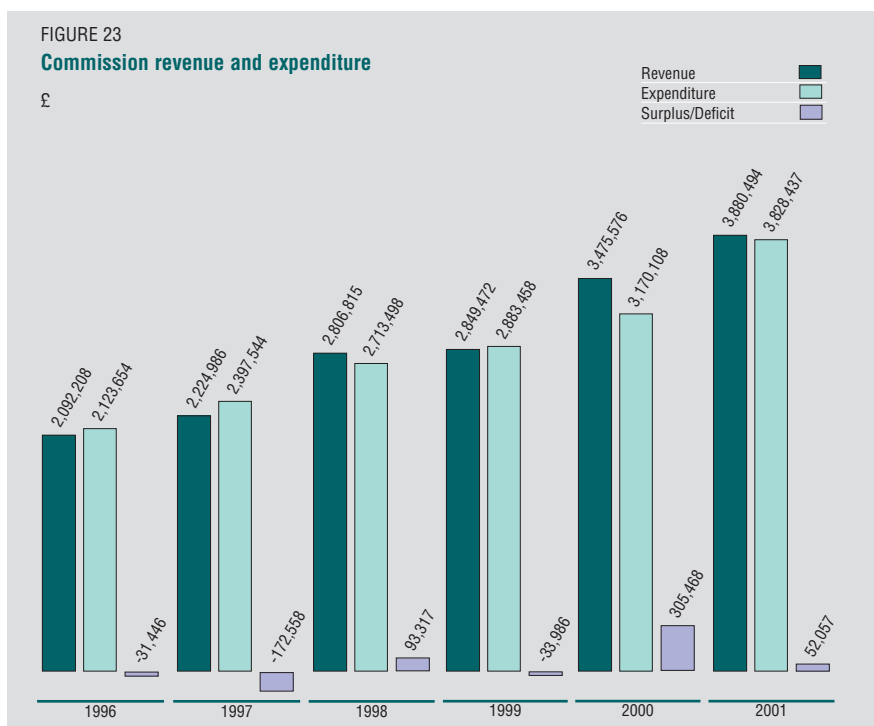

The Commission's financial objectives are to match its expenditure to income and to operate on a nil profit basis. Inevitably, on a year to year basis there are likely to be surpluses and deficits.

As indicated by figure 23, in recent years surpluses and deficits have been kept as low as possible. Prior to 1994, surpluses were used to build up reserves against large expenses and unforeseen costs. The Commission is mindful that it imposes financial resources requirements on the firms it regulates and that it is equally

Commission (Fees) Regulations, 1997 came into effect establishing a new fee structure. This structure has since been amended and extended by the Protected Cell Companies (Fees for Insurers) Regulations, 1998 which came into operation on 1 April 1998; the Financial Services Commission (Fees) (Amendment) Regulations, 1998 which came into effect on 7 July 1998; the Financial Services Commission (Fees) Regulations, 1998 which came into operation on 1 January 1999; the Migration of Companies (Fees) (Amendment) Regulations, 1999 which came into force on 1 April 1999; the Amalgamation of Companies (Fees for Insurers) (Amendment) Regulations, 2001 which came into force on 1 January 2002. Copies of the fees regulations are available from the Commission.

As well as covering the costs of supervision and regulation, the fees paid to the Commission provide for a significant proportion of the costs of the Training Agency. The States of Guernsey also provide funding for the operation of the Training Agency and provide its premises rent-free.

prudent for the Commission to retain an appropriate financial reserve.

The Commission's main source of income is fees.

FINANCIAL STATEMENTS – AUDITORS' REPORT

Independent auditors' report to the chairman and ordinary members of the Guernsey Financial Services Commission

We have audited the financial statements of The Guernsey Financial Services Commission for the year ended 31 December 2001 which are set out on pages 49 to 56. These financial statements have been prepared under the historical cost convention and in accordance with the accounting policies set out on page 52.

Respective responsibilities of the Commissioners and auditors

The Commissioners are responsible for preparing financial statements for each financial year which give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the Commission and of the income and expenditure of the Commission for that period. In preparing those financial statements the Commissioners are required to:

- select suitable accounting policies and then apply them consistently;
- make judgements and estimates that are reasonable and prudent;
- prepare the financial statements on the going concern basis unless it is inappropriate to presume that the Commission will continue its operations.

The Commissioners are responsible for keeping proper accounting records which disclose with reasonable accuracy at any time the financial position of the Commission and to enable them to ensure that the financial statements have been properly prepared. They are also responsible for safeguarding the assets of the Commission and hence for taking reasonable steps for the prevention and detection of fraud and other irregularities.

Our responsibility is to audit the financial statements in accordance with relevant legal and regulatory requirements and United Kingdom Auditing Standards.

We report to you our opinion as to whether the financial statements give a true and fair view. We also report to you if, in our opinion, the Commission has not kept proper accounting records, if we have not received all the information and explanations we require for our audit, or if information specified by law is not disclosed.

Basis of opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with Auditing Standards issued by the Auditing Practices Board. An audit includes examination, on a test basis, of evidence relevant to the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. It also includes an assessment of the significant estimates and judgements made by the Commissioners in the preparation of the financial statements, and of whether the accounting policies are appropriate to the Commission's circumstances, consistently applied and adequately disclosed.

We planned and performed our audit so as to obtain all the information and explanations which we considered necessary in order to provide us with sufficient evidence to give reasonable assurance that the financial statements are free from material misstatement, whether caused by fraud or other irregularity or error. In forming our opinion we also evaluated the overall adequacy of the presentation of information in the financial statements.

Opinion

In our opinion the financial statements give a true and fair view of the state of the Commission's affairs as at 31 December 2001 and of its income and expenditure for the year then ended.

Office equipment and fittings – 25% straight line

Computer equipment – 33¹/₃% straight line

(e) Foreign currency translation

7. Superannuation

Employees of the Commission are eligible to be members of the States of Guernsey Public Servants' Pension Scheme. This is a defined benefits scheme funded by contributions from both employer and employee at rates which are determined periodically on the basis of actuarial advice, and which are calculated to spread the expected costs of benefits payable to employees over the expected service lives of those employees.

	2001	2000
Charge for the year	£122,632	£110,511

As a result of the pension scheme being a multi-employer scheme the Commissioners of the Guernsey Financial Services Commission are unable to identify the share of the assets and liabilities of the scheme that relate to the Commission. As such, in accordance with the requirements of Financial Reporting Standard No. 17 – Retirement Benefits, the pension scheme has been accounted for as if it were a defined contribution scheme.

Full details relating to the funding of the superannuation scheme are provided in the Superannuation Fund section of the accounts for the States of Guernsey. A summary of the main features is given below:

The assets of the scheme are held separately from other States assets. The fund is under the control of the States Advisory and Finance Committee, which has arranged for it to be invested by professional advisers in a wide range of stock exchange securities.

The pension costs relating to the scheme are assessed in accordance with the advice of qualified actuaries using the attained age method of valuation. The most recent actuarial valuation of the scheme was conducted at 31 December 1998. The assumptions which have the most significant effect on the results of the valuation are those relating to the rate of return on investments and the rates of increase in salaries and pensions. It was assumed that the investment return would be 7% per annum, that the general rate of salaries would increase at the rate of 5% per annum, and that pensions and deferred pensions would increase at the rate of 3% per annum. These are long term assumptions which are expected to relate to the future lifetime of the pension scheme.

The assets and liabilities of the scheme are separated between those relating to public servants (including employees of the Commission), those relating to teachers, and those relating to States Members. The valuation showed that the actuarial value of the assets relating to public servants at 31 December 1998 represented 116.2% of the actuarial value of the accrued liabilities relating to this group. The market value of the total scheme's assets amounted to £569,015,647 at 31 December 1998.

8. Training Agency Limited

- i) Training Agency Limited arranges training for the finance industry and for other industry sectors. The company's staff are employed by the Commission and permanently seconded to the company. The Commission currently provides funding to the company in order to meet 50% of its net operating expenditure (including notional rent charged by the Board of Administration and the depreciation charge suffered by the Commission on the provision of fixed assets, as set out below), the balance of the funding requirement being provided by the States of Guernsey via the Board of Industry.
- ii) Included in the tangible fixed assets set out in note 4 are the following assets which relate exclusively to Training Agency Limited and which are situated at its premises in Smith Street. The depreciation charged on these assets in the year of £13,601 is included in the Commission's income and expenditure account. The company's Smith Street premises are provided by the States of Guernsey.

APPENDIX 1 STATUS, FUNCTIONS AND STRUCTURE OF THE COMMISSION

In April 1986 the States (parliament) of Guernsey (“the States”) resolved to establish the Commission as a statutory body. The following year, the Financial Services Commission (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 1987 (“the Commission Law”) was passed and, on 1 February 1988, the Commission came into being.

The status of the Commission is dealt with in sections 1 and 4 of the Commission Law. It is not a committee of the States nor a servant or agent of the States and its staff are not civil servants. Neither is it a company for the purposes of the Companies (Guernsey) Law, 1994. It is a body corporate with perpetual succession and a common seal, capable of suing and being sued in its corporate name.

The Commission Law established the Commission with both general and statutory functions. The general functions include the taking of “such steps as the Commission considers necessary or expedient for the development and effective supervision of finance business in the Bailiwick” and the statutory functions include those under the following:-

The Protection of Depositors, Companies and Prevention of Fraud (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 1969 as amended

The Banking Supervision (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 1994 as amended

The Insurance Business (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Laws, 1986 to 1999

The Protection of Investors (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 1987 as amended

The Regulation of Fiduciaries, Administration Businesses and Company Directors, etc. (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 2000

Section 3 of the Road Traffic (Compulsory Third Party Insurance) (Guernsey) Laws, 1936 to 1989

Section 1 of the Surf-Riding Long Boards (Compulsory Third-Party Insurance) Law, 1969

Section 1 of the Vessels and Speed Boats (Compulsory Third-Party Insurance, Mooring Charges and Removal of Boats) (Guernsey) Law, 1972.

Section 22 of the Commission Law provides that no member, officer or servant of the Commission is personally liable in any civil proceedings in respect of anything done or omitted to be done in the discharge or purported discharge of any function (statutory or general) of the Commission under the Commission Law unless the thing is done or omitted to be done in bad faith. Similarly:-

The Financial Services Commission (Limitation of Liability) Ordinance, 1990

The Protection of Investors (Limitation of Liability) Ordinance, 1990 and made by the States in exercise of powers under section 23 of the Commission Law, together with section 55 of the Banking Supervision (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 1994 and section 57 of the Regulation of Fiduciaries, Administration Businesses and Company Directors, etc. (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 2000 provide variously that no liability shall be incurred by the States, the Committee or the Commission in respect of anything done or omitted to be done in the discharge of the Commission’s various statutory functions unless the thing is done or omitted to be done in bad faith.

Schedule 1 to the Commission Law provides that the Commission shall consist of the president for the time being of the Committee and four ordinary members elected by the States from persons nominated by the Committee and appearing to it to be persons having knowledge, qualifications or experience appropriate to the development and supervision of finance business in the Bailiwick. Paragraph 2 of the Schedule provides that the chairman shall appoint a member of the Committee to act as his alternate. Following a suggestion in the 1998 United Kingdom Home Office Review report that it may be appropriate for regulatory organisations to be entirely separate from all political bodies, in 1999 the Committee agreed that the chairman of the Commission should not be the president of the Committee. This change requires an amendment to the Commission Law. The opportunity was therefore taken to review the whole of the Commission Law. Following that review, the Commission, the Committee and the Law Officers discussed a range of amendments which were presented to the States in a policy letter in October 2001. A draft amendment law was approved by the States in March 2001. It is expected that the law will be enacted in 2002, following approval by the Privy Council.

The statutory functions do not include administration of the Control of Borrowing Ordinances, responsibility for which remains with the Committee. Individual officials of the Commission act for the Committee in matters requiring consent under the Ordinances. Under a similar arrangement, Commission officials act for the Committee in matters requiring action by the Commission under certain sections of the Companies (Guernsey) Law, 1994.

APPENDIX 9 INTERNATIONAL REGULATORY AND SUPERVISORY BODIES

Banking

The Basel Committee on Banking Supervision

The Basel Committee on Banking Supervision is a committee of banking supervisory authorities which was established by the central bank Governors of the Group of Ten countries in 1975. It consists of senior representatives of the banking supervisory authorities and central banks of Belgium, Canada, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Sweden, Switzerland, the United Kingdom and the United States of America. Its current chairman is Mr William J McDonough, president and chief executive officer of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. The Basel Committee usually meets at the Bank for International Settlements in Basel, where its permanent Secretariat is located.

The Basel Committee is responsible for issuing guidelines on standards which the international community expects from banks and bank supervisors. The best known of these were probably the Basel Concordat in 1983 and the Basel Capital Accord of 1988. The Concordat set out demarcation lines for supervisors while the Capital Accord established how supervisors should measure the amount of capital needed to support a bank's risk. The Capital Accord introduced the concept of a minimum risk asset ratio of 8%. More recently, the Basel Committee has introduced Twenty-Five Core Principles of Effective Banking Supervision and an underlying methodology. It is in the course of producing a revised Capital Accord and has already issued substantial consultation papers.

The Basel Committee's work is much more extensive than this brief list might indicate. It has produced papers on a wide variety of subjects and has contributed very substantially to the improving of international standards of banking supervision.

The Offshore Group of Banking Supervisors

The Offshore Group of Banking Supervisors ("OGBS") was established in 1980 as a forum for supervisory co-operation between the banking supervisors in offshore financial centres. Current members of the Group are:- Aruba, Bahamas, Bahrain, Barbados, Bermuda, Cayman Islands, Cyprus, Gibraltar, Guernsey, Hong Kong, Isle of Man, Jersey, Labuan, Mauritius, the Netherlands Antilles, Panama, Singapore and Vanuatu.

The group meets annually. In years when the International Conference of Banking Supervisors is held, it meets at that conference's venue; in other years it meets at a location in one of the jurisdictions represented in the group.

Guernsey was a founding member of the OGBS. It is a useful forum where offshore centres can make their views known and compare experience with like minded centres. It also enables concerns to be passed to the Basel Committee. An example of this in practice is the working group made up of Basel Committee and OGBS members, which has produced papers on the supervision of cross-border banking and on customer due diligence requirements for banks. The Director of Banking is a member of this joint working group.

The Director of Fiduciary Services and Enforcement is a member of the international working group established under the auspices of the OGBS to set international standards for the regulation of trust and corporate service providers.

Insurance

The International Association of Insurance Fraud Agencies

Guernsey is a member of the International Association of Insurance Fraud Agencies ("IAIFA"). The IAIFA was formed in 1986 by the directors of insurance fraud agencies from the United States of America and Canada.

The IAIFA aims to co-ordinate the efforts, training and education of law enforcement agencies, government bodies and the insurance industry to prevent and combat insurance fraud worldwide more effectively. By working with regulators, other law enforcement agencies and companies, the IAIFA attempts to break down jurisdictional barriers. The association is also active in encouraging other enforcement agencies to share information to the mutual benefit of all who are involved in assuring a high level of integrity throughout the insurance industry.

The International Association of Insurance Supervisors

The International Association of Insurance Supervisors ("IAIS") was formed in 1993 and comprises international regulatory officials representing over 100 countries. It is led by an Executive Committee and supported by a full-time Secretary General located at the Bank for International Settlements in Basel, Switzerland.

There are several committees within the IAIS:- Executive, Technical, Emerging Markets Issues, Budget and Conference Planning. There are also several subcommittees that report to the Technical Committee and/or the Emerging Markets Issues Committee in connection with:- accounting; investments; reinsurance; solvency; insurance laws, regulations, practices and standards; supervision of financial conglomerates; exchange of information; insurance fraud; derivatives; and education. The Executive Committee consists of supervisors from Mexico (chairman), Australia (vice-chairman), Canada, Chile, Germany, Guernsey, Japan, Poland, Portugal, Singapore, South Africa, the United Kingdom and the United States of America. There is also an Electronic Commerce/Internet Working Group and a Task Force on Enhanced Disclosure.

Under the IAIS By-laws, supervisors resolve to:-

- (a) co-operate to ensure improved supervision of the insurance industry on a domestic as well as an international level, in order to maintain efficient, fair, safe and stable insurance markets for the benefit and protection of policyholders; and
- (b) to unite their efforts to develop practical standards that members may choose to apply.

The Offshore Group of Insurance Supervisors

The Offshore Group of Insurance Supervisors ("OGIS") was formed in 1993. It consists of full members and provisional members, as well as non-member observers (fourteen members and five observers) and its main objectives are:-

- (a) to provide mechanisms and fora whereby insurance supervisors from jurisdictions concerned with cross-border insurance business may discuss areas of mutual interest and concern and formulate appropriate policies;
- (b) to provide assistance and encouragement to appropriate non-member jurisdictions to establish regimes for the supervision of cross-border insurance business at least to standards equivalent to those of OGIS;

- (c) to represent the interests of OGIS at international insurance fora; and
- (d) generally, to promote the proper supervision of cross-border insurance business.

The membership criteria of OGIS are:-

- (a) agreement with the objects of OGIS concerned with cross-border insurance business;
- (b) having legislation in place:-
 - (i) which enables the regulatory authority to supervise insurance business adequately; and
 - (ii) which permits the exchange of information with other regulatory authorities for the purposes of the prudential regulation of insurance business;
- (c) effective enforcement of its insurance legislation and other relevant legislation;
- (d) adequate resources (including properly qualified supervisory personnel) to regulate its cross-border insurance business effectively; and
- (e) a clear commitment to the implementation of the 1996 anti-money laundering recommendations of the Financial Action Task Force on Money Laundering.

Investment

Enlarged Contact Group on the Supervision of Collective Investment Funds

The Enlarged Contact Group on the Supervision of Collective Investment Funds ("ECG") is an informal group of collective investment fund regulators established in 1970.

Membership was originally restricted to the regulatory authorities of the European Union Member States, but has now widened significantly to include, in addition to the fifteen European Union Member States, Guernsey and the other Crown Dependencies, Brazil, Canada, Hong Kong, Japan, Mexico, Norway, Switzerland and the United States of America.

The ECG holds annual meetings, chaired and organised by the host regulatory authority. These annual meetings include discussions on current regulatory topics, international regulatory co-operation, and recent developments in regulation in the member countries. During the year, members maintain contact on regulatory matters such as the exchange of information.

The ECG's annual meeting in 2002 will be held in Guernsey.

International Organization of Securities Commissions

The International Organization of Securities Commissions ("IOSCO") is an association of securities regulatory organisations created in 1983 and now comprising 162 members. The Commission was originally admitted as an Associate Member in 1991 and became a Full Member in 1997.

IOSCO now embraces almost all the world's securities and derivatives regulatory bodies and plays an increasingly important rôle in assisting members to achieve and maintain high regulatory standards in the interests of investors and the prevention of crime.

The main objectives of IOSCO's members are:-

- (a) to co-operate together to promote high standards of regulation in order to maintain just, efficient and sound markets;
- (b) to exchange information on their respective experiences in order to promote the development of domestic markets;
- (c) to unite their efforts to establish standards and an effective surveillance of international securities transactions; and
- (d) to provide mutual assistance to promote the integrity of the markets by a rigorous application of the standards and by effective enforcement against offences.

IOSCO works with several other major international fora, such as the G-7 Financial Stability Forum, the Basel Committee on Banking Supervision and the International Association of Insurance Supervisors to ensure, in particular, close co-ordination with banking and insurance regulators. The work of IOSCO is directed by an Executive Committee supported by a permanent Secretariat. In turn, the Executive Committee has established two specialised working committees, the Technical Committee and the Emerging Markets Committee, to address the following functional areas:-

- (a) disclosure and accounting;
- (b) regulation of secondary markets;
- (c) regulation of market intermediaries;
- (d) enforcement and the exchange of information; and
- (e) investment management.

There are also four Regional Standing Committees (Africa/Middle East, Asia-Pacific, European and Interamerican) which meet to discuss specific regional problems or considerations and a SRO consultative committee for self-regulating organisations which are Affiliate Members of IOSCO. The Commission is a member of the European Committee.

All Full and Associate Members comprise the Presidents' Committee, which meets during the IOSCO annual conference and has all the powers necessary or convenient to achieve the purposes of IOSCO.

Economic Crime

The Financial Action Task Force on Money Laundering

The Financial Action Task Force on Money Laundering ("FATF") is an inter-governmental body whose purpose is the development and promotion of policies to combat money laundering – the processing of criminal proceeds in order to disguise their illegal origin. These policies aim to prevent such proceeds from being utilised in future criminal activities and from affecting legitimate economic activities.

FATF currently consists of twenty-nine countries and two international organisations. The twenty-nine FATF member countries and governments are:- Argentina, Australia, Austria, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Hong Kong, Iceland, Ireland, Italy, Japan, Luxembourg, Mexico, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Portugal, Singapore, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, the United Kingdom and the United States of America. The two international organisations are the European Commission and the Gulf Co-operation Council. The OGBS is one of several bodies which is affiliated to FATF.

FATF originally drew up Recommendations in 1990. In 1996 the Forty Recommendations were revised to take into account the experience gained over the previous six years and to reflect changes in the global money-laundering environment. From time to time, the Forty Recommendations are extended by the issue of interpretative notes.

The Forty Recommendations set out a basic framework for anti-money laundering efforts and they are designed to be of universal application. They cover the criminal justice system and law enforcement, the financial system and its regulation, and international co-operation.

In early 2000 FATF issued twenty-five criteria for defining non-co-operative countries or territories. These criteria are designed to ensure that international co-operation in the fight against money laundering is not impeded by detrimental rules and practices of financial centres. In addition, in the autumn of 2001 FATF issued eight special recommendations on terrorist financing. When combined with the Forty Recommendations, the special recommendations set out the basic framework to detect, prevent and suppress the financing of terrorism and terrorist acts.
